It is the chiefest and ancientest Consistorie that belongeth to the Archbishop of Canterbury, for the debating of Spirituall causes: So called of the Church in London where they sit, and hold this Consistorie, called Bow-Church, which is in Latine Arcuum Ecclesia, and called Sancta Maria de Arcubus, which Church was dedicated to our Ladie, and had that denomination at the first of Bow-Church, by reason of building of the top of the steeple Bow-wise, or Arch-wise, like so many Bowes bent. The Iudge of this Court is called, Deane of the Arches, or Official of the Arches Court. Deane of the Arches, because with this officialtie is commonly ioyned a peculiar Iurisdiction of 13. Parishes in London, (learned a Deane) being exempted from the authoritie of the Bishop of London, and belonging to the Archbishop of Canterbury: Of which the parish of Bowe is one and the chief, because the Court is there kept.

- * to Attache. 941  to Attache, a G. Attacher, i. Ang. to attache, tacke, or fasten vnto. Lat. Affigere, Alligare, Nectere. In our Common Law, it signifieth to take hold, or apprehend by commandement of Writ, and differeth from an Arrest, or Capias, which lieth on the bodie, and an Attachment vpon body, and sometime on goods. Besides, M. Lambert in his Eirenarchie, or office of Iustice of Peace, lib. i. cap. 16. maketh this difference betwene an Arrest and an Attachment, that an Arrest proceedeth out of lower Courts by precept, and an Attachment out of higher Courts by Precept or Writ. Also betwixt an Attachment and a Distresse is there difference, because a Distresse toucheth not the body, but goods and lands, and an Attachment body and goods, but not land, as a Distresse doth. Lat. tingere, to stain, to die, colour, vnde Gal. Teint, Lat. Tinctus, stained, as we say, he is attained or Tainted of Treason, &c. i. stained. A man is attaint two manner of waies: by Appearance, or by Proces. q. Stanf. Pl. cor. fo. 44. Attaint by Appearance, is by Confession, Battle, or Verdict. Idem, fo. 122. By Confession, as being asked, Guilty or not guilty, answering, Guilty, neuer putting himselfe vpon the verdict of the Iurie. By Battle, when the party appealed by another, and chusing to trie the truth by Combat, rather then by Iurie, is vanquished. By Verdict, when the Prisoner at the barre, answering to the indictment Not guilty, and yet is found by the verdict guilty. Idem, fo. 108. & 192. Attaint also is a Writ, and lieth where a false verdict is given by 12. men, and iudgement given thereon; the partie against whom they haue passed, may haue a Writ of Attaint against the 12. men, as partiall, and to haue given sentence contrary to the evidence shewed vnto them. And whereas before, vpon the first Enquest, commonly they all be Ycomen, now vpon this Attaint, must goe 24. Gentlemen dwelling within the Shire. The matter is pleaded againe before the same Iudges: but there must in the Attaint no more evidence be brought in, but only that which was brought in, and alledged before the first Enquest. If this second Enquest doe finde that the first haue gone partially, and against the evidence brought in before them, the first Enquest is called Attainted, and accounted as perjured and infamed, and shall forfeit to the King their Lands and Tenements, &c. But if the 24. doe adiudge as the first, the Plaintiffe that brought that Attaint, shall be imprisoned, and ransomed at the Kings will. 23. H. 8. c. 3. Reade more de Repub. Angl. by Sir Tho. - 1073 Baile, (a terme in our Common Law) properly for the freeing, or setting at libertie, of one arrested, or imprisoned, upon Action, either Ciuill or Criminal, under suretie taken for his Appearance, at a day and place certainly assigned. Bract. lib. 3. Tract. 2. cap. 8. num. 8.9. dict. à G. Bail, i. tradere, to deliuer vp, because he is then deliuered into the hands of them that binde themselves for his forth-comming. M. Manwood in his first part of Forest Lawes, pag. 167. maketh a great difference betwixt Baile and Mainprife. For (saith he) he that is mainprised, is alwaies said to be at large, and goe at his owne libertie, out of ward, after he is let to mainprife, untill the day of his appearance. But it is otherwise where a man is let to Baile, by 4. or 2. men, or by the L. Chief Justice in Eyre of the Forest, untill a certaine day. For he is alwaies accounted by the Law, to be in their ward and custodie for the time they undertake for him. And they may, if they will, keepe him in ward or prison, all that time, so that he that is so bailed, shall not be said, by the Law, to be at large, or at his owne libertie. Or Baile may be said of the suretie which is baille, i. given or deliuered up as a pledge to answer. So is the suretie said to be Baile for another man, Baille, i. given or deliuered up, that if the Principall appeare not at the day appointed, the Baile is to answer the Action or matter. Baile is called in Latine Manucapcio. Vide Mainprife.

Gr. νομαρχος, q. præfectura imperium obtinens, à νομος, i. lex, à νόμος, i. distribuo, & ἀρχος, i. dux, præfectus. Præfectus Prouincie, vltimo Bailius, a Gouernor, a Mafor, a Bailieff, a Magistrate appointed within a Prouince or Precinct, to execute iustice, as a Justice of Peace, to maintaine the Peace, and preserve the people from wrong, oppression, and

and vexation. He hath authoritie and power to enquire and take notice of Felonies, Treasons, Murders, Pöpular Assemblies, Faires, Markets, Freedomes, or other Priuiledges vsurped, or vniu'sly stood on. Hee makes Proclamation in his owne name, and appoints the Ordinary Masters in his Province. At Assises he is principall Iudge, yet but a Deputie to the King, or some Lord, whereof euery one may haue a Baillie within his Territorie and Iurisdiction, so that there be Baillifs royaux, Baillies Royall, which in ancient time were but foure, but now are many in number, Baillifs de Prouinces, or Grands Baillifs, Baillies of Prouinces, which are of Dukes, Marqueses, and Earles, who besides other prerogatiues, haue the deciding of great and priuiledged cases, to make difference from other Baillies of other places. For as there be sixteene Parliaments in France, & Lupin, de Magistrat. Francorum, lib. 2. cap. Parlamentum, which be high Courts, whence lieth no appeale, within the Precincts of which, there be seuerall Prouinces, vnto which within themselves, Iustice is ministred by certaine Officers called Baillifs, as in England the chiefe Magistrates of diuers Townes Cöporate be called Baillies, who haue the same Authoritie in their Iurisdiction, as the Baillies in France. And as our Realme of England is diuided into Countiees, or Shires, so is euery Countie diuided into Hundreds, within the which, in ancient time, the Kings Subiects had Iustice ministred vnto them by the seuerall Officers of euery Hundred, which were called Baillies. And a Baillie, as Bracton writeth, lib. 3. Tract. 2. cap. 34. num. 5. might hold Plea of Appeale and Approuers. But sithence that time, these Hundred Courts (certaine Franchises excepted) are by Statute, An. 14. Ed. 3. Stat. 1. cap. 9. brought into Countie Courts. In which in former time, Iustice hath bene ministred to the Inhabitants of each Countie, by the Vicount, which we call Shyreuee, the one name descending from the Normans, the other from the Saxons, as Reeue of the Shyre, which word Reeue, in the Saxon, signifieth also a Baillie. Whereby it is probable, that in ancient time the Baillies did administer Iustice to the Inhabitants of the whole Countie, because the Countie is called many times Balliua, i. a Baillie, as Kitch. Retur. Breu. fol. 258. Non est inuentus in Balliua, &c. In England there be Baillies Errants, and Baillies of Franchises, which in our Law or Vulgar Latine, are called (Balliui itinerantes) i. going bi-ther and thither in the Countie to serue Writs, and summon the Countie Sessions, Assises, and such like, &c. which are made and appointed by the Sheriefe. (Balliui Franchisarum aut Libertatum) are those that be appointed by euery Lord within his Libertie, to doe such Offices within his Precincts, as the Baillie Errant doth at large within the Countie. There be also Baillies of the Forrest, & Manwood, part. 1. pag. 113. With vs in England there be Baillies of Husbandrie, belonging to a Mannor, or to priuate men of much lands and substance, who seeme to be so called for the reason aboue written, for that they dispose of the vnder seruants, euery man to his labour and taske, checke them for misdoing their businesse, gather the profits of their Lord and Master, and deliuer vp an account. This also among the Saxons was called a Reeue, for the word, Baillie, came in with the Normans, and Rebuffus in constitut. regis de senten. executionis, art. 7. glo. 1. writeth, that it cometh from the Heb. בַּיַּל baal, i. dominus, a master, because Baillies command and beare rule in stead of their Masters. The Latine word is Villicus.

nuptia, coniugium. It is used in our common law, for an impediment that bindereth a man to be a Clerke, and so for a prisoner to lose the benefit of his Clergie, by reason he hath bene twice married. For the Ca-nonists hold that he that hath bene twice married, may not be a Clerke, and they ground it upon these words of S. Paul to Timothy, the first Epistle, chap. 3. vers. 2. Oportet ergo Episcopum irreprehensibilem esse, & vnius uxoris virum, q. D. Courell. denied at the Councell of Lions, upon some dislike of second marriages, as the Author of the new Termes of Law saith, by which also they hold him that hath married a widow, and by interpretation, take to haue bene twice married. And both these they doe not only exclude from holy orders, but also deny them all priuiledges of Clergie. But at this day by force of the Act made in An. i. Ed. 6. cap. 12. and to that may be added the statute An. 10. Eliz. cap. 7. which for the loue of learning alloweth all men that can reade, as Clerkes, to haue the benefit of their Clergie, in case of Felony. If you be desirous to see what reasons they haue against second

New Termes of Law: the other is a Writ of Execution after Iudgement, being also of diuers kindes, viz. Capias ad satisfaciendum, Capias pro fine, Capias vlagatum & inquiras de bonis & catallis, which at large is declared in q. Natura breuium.
- b Capias ad satisfaciendum, is a Writ of Execution after Iudgement, lying where a man recovereth, in an action personal, as debt or damages, or detinew, in the Kings Court: and he against whom the debt is recovered, and hath no Lands or Tenements, nor sufficient goods, whereof the debt may be leuied: In this case, he that recovereth shall haue this Writ to the Sheriffe, commanding him, that hee take the bodie of him, against whom the debt is recovered; and he shall be put in prison, untill satisfaction be made vnto him that recovered.
- c Capias pro fine, is where one being by Iudgement Fined vnto the King, vpon some offence committed against a Statute, doth not discharge it, according to the Iudgement: For by this is his bodie taken, and committed to prison, untill hee content the King for his Fine, q. Coke lib. 3. cap. 12. 2.
- d Capias vlagatum, is a Writ of Execution, or after Iudgement, which lieth against him that is outlawed vpon any suit: by the which the Sheriffe vpon the receipt thereof, apprehendeth the partie outlawed, for not appearing vpon the Exigent, and keepeth him in safe custodie, untill the day of the returne assigned in the Writ, and then presenteth him to the Court, there further to be ordered for his Contempt.
- e Capias vlagatum & inquiras de bonis & catallis, is a Writ all one with the former next before, but that it giueth a further power to the Sheriffe, ouer and besides the apprehension of his bodie, to enquire also of his goods and catells.

b Chancelour in other Kingdomes, as also in ours, is a Tide giuen to him, that is the Chiefe man for matter of Iustice (in Ciuill causes especially) next vnto the Prince. For whereas all other Iustices in our Common-wealth are tied to the Law, and may not sue vne from it in Iudgement; the Chancelor hath in this a more absolute power, to moderate and temperate the written Law, ordering all things iuxta æquum & bonum, and therefore q. Stawford Prærog. cap. 20. fol. 65. saith that the Chancelor hath two Powers, one Extraordinarie, the other Ordinarie, meaning that though by his Ordinarie power in some cases, hee must obserue the forme of proceeding, as other ordinary Iudges, yet that in his Extraordinarie power, hee is not limited by the written Law, but by Conscience, according to the circumstance of the matters in question. This high Officer seemeth to be deriued from France to vs, as many other Officers and Vtages are: For of this thus writeth Boetius, Tract. de Autoritate magni concilij, nu. 8. Consistorio Franciæ, post Principem, Dominus Franciæ cancellarius qui velut excelsum Iudicij tribunal hoc in regno (sub principis vniuerso) moderans, sigillum Authenticum (sine quo sigillo publicis & patentibus Regijs literis nulla fides adhibetur) & liberam administrationem habens, omnes & singuli Regij Iusticiarij eo inferiores sunt. Five Ports or Hauens, be those speciall Haven Townes which lie toward France, in the East part of England, which in respect of their situation, anciently required a more vigilant care than other Hauens, being in greater danger of inuasion by our enemies, by reason that the Sea is narrower there, than in other places. q. Mr. Camden in his Britannia, saith, that the Romans, after they had settled themselves and their Empire here in England, appointed a Magistrate or Gouvernour over those East parts, whom they termed Comitum littoris Saxonici, per Britanniam, hauring another that did beare the same title, on the opposite part of the Sea, whose office was to strengthen the Sea-coasts with munition, against the outrages and robberies of the Barbarians: but more especially (as my Author saith) against the inuasion of the Saxons, which at that time did much waste and spoile the Countrey in those parts. Of which places and Ports to this day is there an especiall Gouvernour or Keeper, called by his Office, Lord Warden of the Cinque-ports, hauring the authoritie, and all that jurisdiction that the Lord Admirall of England hath in places not exempt, and sending out Writs in his owne name. which Ports at this day are knowne by the names of Hastings, Dover, Hith, Rymney, Sandwich. b The Inhabitants of these Ports, and of their limbs or members, enioy diuers and great priuiledges above the rest of the Commons of that Countrey: They pay no Subsidies; besides, Suits at Law are commenced and answered within their owne Townes and liberties: their Maiors or Barons haue the credit of carrying the Canopie over the King or Queene at their Coronation. And for their greater dignitie, they are placed then at a Table on the right hand of the King. q. Crompton in his Iurisdictiones, fol. 28. nameth the Cinque-ports to*

2530 Clarke of the Parlament Rolles, Clericus Rotulorum Parlamentii, is he that recordeth all things done in the high Court of Parlament, and engrosseth them faire into parchment Rolles, for their better keeping to all posteritie. Of these there be two; one of the higher, another of the lower house, q. Cromptons Iurisd. fol. 4. & 8. Sir Tho. Smith, de Repub. Ang. pag. 38. Vi. also Vowels booke, touching the order of the Parlament.

c Clarke of the Crowne in the Chauncery, Cléricus Coró- nis in Cancelleria, is an Officer there, that by himselfe, or his Deputie, is continually to attend the Lo. Chauncellour, or Lo. Keeper, for speciall matters of estate, by Commission, or the like, either immediately from his Maiesie, or by order of his prync counsell, as well ordinary as extraordinary: viz. Commissions of Lieutenancies, of Iustices errant, i. Iu-stices of Assises, Iustices of oyer and terminer, of goale delivery of the Peace, and suchlike: with their Writs of Association, and Dedimus potestatem for taking of oathes. Also all generall pardons upon grants of them at the Kings Coronation, or at a Parlament, where he sitteth in the higher house at the Parlament time, the Writs of Parla- ment, with the names of Knights, and Burgesies, which bee to be returned into his Office. He hath also the making of all speciall pardons and Writs of Execution, vpon bonds of Statute, of the Staple forfeited: which was annexed to his Office in the reigne of Queene Mary, in consideration of his continuall and chargeable attendance, both these before being for every Courtitour and Clarke of Court to make.

c Clarke of the Crowne, Clericus Coronæ, is an Officer in the Kings Bench, whose function is to frame, read and record all Indictments against Traitors, Felons, and other offenders there arraigned, upon any publike crime. Hee is otherwise termed Clarke of the Crowne Office.
 And Anno 2. H. 4. ca. 10. hee is called Clarke of the Crowne, of the Kings Bench. The reason of his denomination is because he reads and records Indictments against Traitors, Felons, &c. which are against the Kings Crowne and dignity.

* Clarke of the f Clarke of the Extreats, Clericus extractorum, belongeth to the Exchequer, who termely receiveth the extreats out of the L. Treas- urers Remembrancer his office, and writeth them out to be lent for the King. He also maketh Cedulae for such summes extreated, as are to be discharged. Vi. Extreats, vel potius Extreats.

g Clarke of Assise, Clericus Assise, is he that writeth all things judicially done by the Iustices of Assises, in their Circuits. Crompt. Iur- isd. fol. 227.

h Clarke of the Pell, Clericus Pellis, belongeth to the Exchequer, whose office is to enter every tellers bill into a parchment Roll, called Pellis receptorum, i. the skinne or Roll of Receipts, and also to make another Roll of payments, which is called Pellis exituum, wherein he sets downe by what warrant the money was paid, and thereof called Pel, or Pell, of the Lat. Pellis, a skinne. So that his Office is, for all receipts and payments to the King, for what cause soever, or by whomsoever.

* Clarke of the Pell.

i Clarke of the Warrants, Clericus Warrantorum, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Pleas, which entreteth all Warrants of Atturney for Plaintiffe and Defendant, and enrolleth all Deeds of Indenture of bargain and sale, which are acknowledged in the Court, or before any Iudges out of the Court. And hee doth extreat into the Exchequer all Issues, Fines, and Amercements, which grow due to the King any way in that Court: and hath a standing Fee of 10 l. of the King for making the same extreats. Vi. Fitz. Nat. br. fo. 76.

k Clarke of the Petit Bagge, Clericus parvæ Bagæ, is an Officer in the Chauncerie, of which sort there be three, and the Master of the Rolles is their chiefe. Their Office is to record the Returne of all Inquisitions out of every shire, all Liveries granted in the Court of Wards, all ou-terles mains, to make all Patents of Customers, Gawgers, Controllers, and Aulnegers, all conge d'ellures for Bishops, all Libérateis upon extent of Statute Staples, the recovery of Recognizances forfeited, and all Elegits upon them, the summons of the Nobility, Clergy, and Burgesies of the Parlament, Commissions directed to Knights and other of every Shire, for raising of the Subsidies, Writs for the nomination of Collectors, and all traueses upon any office, bill or otherwise, and to receive the money due to the King for the same. This Officer is mentioned, Anno 33. H. 8.
 cap. 22. and it is like had first this denomination and stile of Petrie Bagges, because having to doe with so many Records of divers kindes as above mentioned, they were put in sundrie leather bags, which were not so great as the Clarke of the Hamper now useth, and therefore might bee called Petits Bagges, small or little bags. Vi. Clarke of the Hamper.

* Clarke of the Petit Bagge.

l Clarke of the Kings great Wardrobe, Clericus magnæ Garde- robæ Regis, is an Officer of the Kings house, that keepeth an account or Inventarie in writing, of all things belonging to the Kings Wardrobe. This Officer is mentioned, Anno 1. Ed. 4. cap. 1.

m Clarke or Comptroller of a Market, Cléricus mercatus sine fori, called according to the Greeke name. G. Agoranóme. I. H. Agora- nóme. L. Agoranómus. Gr. ἀγοράνομος, ab ἀγορά, i. forum, the market place, & νόμος, i. administro, rego, to governe or order. It is an Officer in the Kings house, mentioned, Anno 1. Ed. 4. ca. 1. & Anno 13.
 R. 2. cap. 4. whose dutie is to take charge of the Kings measures, and to keepe the Standards of them (that is) the Examples or Patternes of all the Measures that ought to bee iborow the Land: as of Elnes, Elles, Yards, Lagens, as Quarts, Portles, Gallons, &c. of Weights, Bushels, and suchlike, and to see that all measures in every place be answerable to the said Standard or Pattern. Fleta lib. 2. cap. 3, 9, 10, 11, 12. of which Office, as also of our diversitie of weights and measures, you may there finde a Treatise worth the reading. Britton also in his 30. Chapter, saith in the Kings person to this effect: We will that none have measures in the Realme but Wee our selues, but that every man take his measure and weights from our Standards: And so goeth on with a Treatise of this matter, that well sheweth the ancient Law and practise in this point.
 Touching this Officers dutie, you have also a good Statute, Anno 13.
 R. 2. ca. 4.

n Clarke of the Kings Silver, Clericus Argenti Regis, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Pleas, unto whom every fine is brought, after it hath bene with the Custos Breuium, and by whom the effect of the Writ of covenant is entered into a paper Booke; and according to that note, all the Fines of that terme are also recorded in the Rolles of the Court. And his entrie is in this forme: He putteth the Shire over the mar-gen, and then saith, B. C. dar Domino Regi dimidiam merkam (or more according to the value) pro licentia concordandi D. cum D. E. pro talibus terris in tali villa, & habet Chirographum per pacem admissum, &c.

o Clarke of the Peace, Cléricus Pacis, is an Officer belonging to the Sessions

Sessions of the Peace. His dutie is in the Sessions to read the Indictments, to enroll the Afts, and draw the processe, to record the Proclamations of rates for servants wages, to enroll the discharge of Apprentices, to keepe the Counterpaine of the Indenture of Armour, to keepe the Register Booke of Licences giuen to Badgers and Laders of corne, and of those that are licensed to shoot in guns, and to certifie into the Kings Bench transcripts of Indictments, Outlawries, Attainders, and Conuictions, had before the Iustices of peace within the time limited by Statute, q Lamb. Eirenarchia lib. 4. ca. 3. fo. 379.

P Clarke of the Signet, Clericus Signetii, is an Officer continually attendant on his Maiesties Secretary, who alwaies hath the custodie of the priuie Signet, as well for sealing his Maiesties priuate Letters, as also such grants as passe his Maiesties hands by Bill assigned. Of these there be foure that attend in their course, and were used to haue their diet at the Secretaries table. More largely you may read of their Office in the Statute made An. 27. H. 8. ca. 11.

q Clarke of the Priuie Seale, Clericus Priuati Sigilli, is an Officer (whereof there be foure in number) that attendeth the Lord Keeper of the Priuie Seale, or if there be none such, upon the Principall Secretarie, writing and making out all things that be sent by warrant, from the Signet to the Priuie Seale, and are to be passed to the Great Seale, as also to make out (as they are termed) Priuie Seales, upon any especiall occasion of his Maiesties affaires, for lone or lending of money or such like. Of this Officer and his function, you may reade the Statute, Anno 27. H. 8. ca. 11.

r Clarke of the Juries, or Jurata Writs, Clericus Iuratorum, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Pleas, which maketh out the Writs called Habeas Corpora, and Distringas for appearance of the Iurie, either in Court, or at the Assises, after that the Iurie or panell is returned upon the Venire facias. He entreteth also into the Rolles the awarding of these Writs, and makethall the continuance from the going out of the Habeas Corpora, untill the verdict be given.

* Clarke of the Pipe.

r Clarke of the Pipe, Clericus Pipe, is an Officer in the Kings Exchequer, who hauing all accounts and debts due vnto the King, delivered and drawne downe out of the Remembrancers Offices, chargeeth them downe into the Great Roll: who also writeth summons to the Shyreuee to leuie the said debts, upon the goods and chattells of the said debtors: and if they haue no goods, then doth hee draw them downe to the Lord treasurers Remembrancer, to write Extreates against their Land. The Ancient Reueneue of the Crowne, remaineth in charge before him, and he seeth the same answered by the Fermers and Shyreuees to the King. He maketh a charge to all Shyreuees of their summons of the Pipe and Greene wax, and seeth it answered upon their accounts. He hath the ingrossing of all leases of the Kings Lands: and it is likely that it was at the first called, and still hath denomination of Pipe, and Clarke of the Pipe, and Pipe Office, because that from their great Roll, called the Great Roll, Anno 37. Ed. 3. cap. 4. issue as from a Pipe all Processe whereby the King recovereth any thing due vnto him, or discharge the same, q Powell, his direction for search of Records, Pag. 43. l. 4.

* Clarke of the Hamper.

r Clarke of the Hamper or Hanaper, Clericus Hanaperij, is an Officer in Chauncerie, Anno 2. Ed. 4. ca. 1. otherwise called Warden of the Hamper in the same Statute, whose function is to receiue all the money due to the Kings Maiestie for the scales of Charters, Patents, Commissions, and Writs, as also Fees due to the Officers for enrolling and examining the same, with such like. He is tied to attendance on the Lord Chancelour, or Lord Keeper daily in the Terme time, and at all times of Sealing hauing with him leather bagges, wherein are put all Charters, &c. after they be sealed by the Lo. Chancelour, and those bagges being sealed up, with the Lo. Chancellors priuate Seale, are delivered to the Comptroller of the Hamper, or Hanaper. Whereas now the Clarke hath with him, leather bagges to put in the Charters, it is likely in old times they were Hampers or Baskets, and thereof called Clarke of the Hamper, or Hanaper. This Hanaper representeth a shadow of that which the Romanes termed Fiscum, that contained the Emperours Treasure.

u Clarke of the Pleas, Clericus Placitorum, is an Officer in the Exchequer, in whose Office all the Officers of that Court (upon especiall priuilege belonging vnto them) ought to sue or to be sued upon any Action, and thereof called Plees, and Common Plees, because places whereupon Actions in Law are impleaded and sued. Vi. Plea.

w Clarke of the Treasurie, Clericus Thesaurariz, is an Officer belonging to the Common Plees, who hath the charge of keeping the Records of that Court, and maketh out all Records of Nisi prius, hath the Fees due for all searches, and hath the certifying of all Records in the Kings Bench, when a Writ of error is brought, and maketh out all Writs of Superfideas de non molestando, which are granted for the Defendants, while the Writ of error hangeth. Also he maketh all exemplifications of Records being in the Treasurie. He is taken to bee servant to the Chiefe Iustice, but remouable at his pleasure, whereas all other Officers are for terme of life. There is also a Secundarie or Vnder-clerke of the Treasurie for assistance, which hath some allowances. There is likewise an Vnder keeper, who alwaies keepeth one key of the Treasurie doore, and the chiefe Clarke of the Secundarie another: so the one cannot come in without the other. Vi. Treasurer.

z Clarke of the Effoines, Clericus Effoniorum, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Plees, who onely keepeth the Effoines Roll, and hath for entring euery Effoine, vj. s. and for euery exception to barre the Effoine, vj. s. He hath also the providing of Parchment, and cutting it into Rolles, and marking the numbers upon them, and the deliuerie out of all the Rolles to euery Officer, and the receiuing of them againe when they be written, and the binding and making up of the whole bundles of euery Terme. And this he doth as servant to the Chiefe Iustice: For the Chiefe Iustice is at charge for all the parchment of all the Rolles. The word Effoines cometh of the French * Effoine, Exoine, m. i. an effoine, or excuse, or toleration for absence upon a lawfull cause alleged vpon oath, sorte à Lat. exoneratus, exempted. Vi. Effoine.

* Effoine, vnde.

y Clarke of the Outlawries, Clericus Vilagiariorum, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Plees, being onely the servant or deputie to the Kings Atturney Generall, for making out the Writs of Capias vilagiarum after outlawrie. And the Kings Atturneys name is in euery ry one of these Writs. And whereas vij. s. is paid for the Seale of euery other Writ, there is but a penny paid for the Seale of this Writ, because it goeth out at the Kings suit. Vi. Outlawrie.

z Clarke of the Sewers, Clericus Suerarum, is an Officer pertaining to the Commissioners of Sewers, writing all things they doe by vertue of their Commission. For the which see the Statute Anno 13. Eliz. ca. 9. And Vi. Sewers.

aa Clarke Comptroller of the Kings house (whereof there be two) is an Officer in Court, that hath place and seat in the Compting-house, and authoritie to allow or disallow the charges and demands of Pouruiants and Messengers of the Greene-cloth, Pourveyors, or other like. He hath also the ouersight and Comptrolling of all defaults, defects and miscarriages of any inferior Officers, * and to sit in the Compting house with the Superiour officers, viz. the Lord Steward, the Treasurer, Comptroller, and Cofferer, Masters of the Houshold, and Clarkes of the Greencloth, either for correcting or bettering things out of order: and also for bringing in countrie provision requisite for the Kings houshold, and the censure for failing of carriages and Caris warned and charged for that purpose. This Office you haue mentioned, Anno 33. H. 8. ca. 12. Vi. Comptroller, & Greencloth.

* Clarke Comptroller of the Kings house.

* Officers of the Compting house at Court.

bb Clarke of the Nihilis, Clericus Nihilorum, is an Officer in the Exchequer, that maketh a Roll of all such summes as are Nihilied by the Shyreuees upon their extreates of Greene wax, and deliuereth the same into the Lo. Treasurers Remembrancer his Office, to haue execution done upon it for the King. Vi. Nihil.

cc Clarke of the Checke, is an Officer in Court so called because he hath the checke and comptrolement of the Yeomen of the Guard, and all other ordinarie Yeoman Huissiers belonging either to his Maiestie, the Queene, or the Prince, either giuing leaue or allowing their absences or defects in attendance, or diminishing their wages for the same. He also nightly by himselfe or deputie taketh the view of those that are to watch in the Court, and hath the setting of the watch: This Officer is mentioned, Anno 33. H. 8. ca. 12.

dd Clarke Marshall of the Kings house, seemeth to be an Officer that attendeth the Marshall in his Court, and recordeth all his proceedings, mentioned Anno 33. H. 8. cap. 12. Vi. sub voce Marshall.

As also to make Cognizance of taking a distresse, sometime as an audience or hearing of a matter iudicially, as to take cognisance: sometime power or jurisdiction, as Cognisance of a Plea, is an abilitie to call a Cause or a Plea out of another Court, which no man can doe but the King, except he can shew Charter for it, q. Manwood part. 1. of his Forrest Lawes, pag. 68. The new termes of Law hath these words; Conusance of a Plea is a privilege that a Citie or Towne hath of the Kings grant, to hold Plea of all contracts, and of lands within the precinct of the Franches, and that when any man is impleaded for any such thing, in the Court of the King at Westminster, the Maior and Bailiffs of such Franchises or their Attorney, may aske Conusance of the Plea, that is to say, that the Plea and the matter shall be pleaded and determined before them. But if the Court at Westminster be lawfully seized of the Plea before Conusance be demanded, then they shall not haue Conusance for that suit, because they haue negligently surceased their time of demand thereof. But this shall be no barre to them to haue Conusance in another Action: for they may demand Conusance in one Action, and omit it in another Action, at their pleasure: And not that Conusance lieth not by prescription, but it behooueth to shew the Kings Letters Patents for it. For example, if a man couenant with another, and enter a Bond for the performance of his couenant, the Bond is termed Collateral assurance, because it is without the Nature and Essence of the Couenant. And q. Crompton in his Jurisdic. fol. 185. saith, that to be subiect to the feeding of the Kings Deere, is Collateral to the soile within the Forest. In like manner, to pitch booties or standings for a Faire in another mans ground, is Collateral to the ground. The priuare woods of a common person within a Forrest may not be cut without the Kings licence: for it is a Prerogative Collateral to the soile. q. Manwood part 1. of his Forest Lawes, pag. 66. Of this you may read at large, Paris de Puteo de re militari & duello. Alciat. de duello. Hotoman. disput. feudallium, cap. 42. As also in our Common Lawyers of England, namely, Glanville lib. 14. c. 1. Bracton lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 3. Britton cap. 22. Horns Mirror of Iustices, lib. 3. cap. des exceptions in fine proxime ante C. Inuementum duelli apud Dier. fol. 301. num. 41, 42, q. Stawnf. Ples of the Crowne, lib. 2. fol. 176. b. and 177 a. saith that it is an ancient trial in our Law, and much used in times past, as appeareth by diuers Presidents in the times of Edward the Third, and Henry the Fourth: which is not yet out of use, but may be by the Law in use at this day, if the Defendant will, and nothing can be drawne in Conter-plee thereto. And it is said M. 37. H. 6. f. 3. that to wage Battle, or to Combat is by the Cinill Law: but Moile saith it is by our Common Law, and as Stanford ples of the Crowne, fol. 177. a. saith, * That they shall come armed into the Court, and ioyne issue: the Plaintiffe begins his Appeale, &c. and the Defendant pleads not guilty, and (as Britton setteth it downe, fo. 41.) undertakes to defend it with his bodie, &c. Then they shall be both lead into a certaine place, and forthwith there shall be an Oyez or Proclamation made, that none shall be so bold but the Combatants, to speake or doe any thing that shall disturbe the Combat or Battle: and whosoever shall doe against this Proclamation, shall suffer imprisonment for a yeere and a day. Then they shall fight with weapons, but not with any iron, but with two staves or battons tipt with home, of an Ell long, both of equal length, and each of them a Target, and with no other weapon may they enter the lists. And if the Defendant can defend himselfe till after Sunne set, and as my Author saith, till you may see the starrs in the firmament, and demand indgement if hee ought to fight any longer, then must there be iudgement given on the Defendants side.

g Common Law, Communis Lex, hath three diuers significations: which see in the Author of the New Termes of Law.

h Common Pleas, Communia Placita, is the Kings Court now held in Westminster Hall, but in ancient time moveable, as appeareth by the Statute called Magna Charta, cap. 11. as also Anno 2. Edw. 3. cap. 11. and Pupilla oculi, part. 5. cap. 22. and that upon the grant of that Charter, the Court of Common Pleas was erected, and settled in one place certaine, viz. at Westminster, wherefoever the King lay, and that after that all the Writs ran, Quod sit coram Iusticiarijs meis, apud Westmonasterium, whereas before the partie was commanded by them to appeare coram me vel Iusticiarijs meis, simply without addition of place, as is well observed out of Glanville and Bracton, the one writing in Henry the Second time, before this Court was erected, the other in the latter end of Henry the Third time, who erected this Court. All civil causes, both real and personal, are, or were in former times tried in this Court, according to the strict Law of the Realm. And by Fortescue, cap. 50. it seemeth to haue bene the only Court for real causes, The chiefe Iudges thereof is called the Lord Chiefe Iustice of the Common Pleas, accompanied with three or foure Assisants or Associates, which are created by Letters Patents from the King, and (as it were) enstalled or placed upon the Bench, by the Lord Chancellor and Lord Chiefe Iustice of that Court, as appeareth by q. Fortescue, cap. 51. who expresseth all the circumstances of this admission. The rest of the Officers belonging to this Court are these, the Custos Breuium, three Protonotaries, or principall Notaries, otherwise called Pregnotaries, Chirographer, Filazers in number fourteene, Exigentes foure, Clarke of the Warrants, Clarke of the Iuries or Iurata Writs, Clarke of the Treasurie, Clarke of the Kings Siluer, Clarke of the Essoines, Clarke of the Outlawries: whose offices and functions looke in their proper places. - Copihold tenure. d a Copihold, (L. Tenura per copiam rotuli curie) is a Tenure, for the which the Tenant bath nothing to shew, but the Copie of the Rolles made by the Steward of his Lords Court. For the Steward, as he enuollet and maketh remembrances of all other things done in the Lords Court; so he doth also of such Tenants as be admitted in the Court, to any parcell of Land, or Tenement belonging to the Mannour. And the Transcript of this is called the Court-roll, the Copie whereof the Tenant taketh from him, and keepeth as his only euidence, q. Coke lib. 4. fol. 25. b. This Tenure is called * a base Tenure, because it holdeth at the will of the Lord, q. Kitchin fol. 80. chap. Copiholds, q. Fitzherbert Nat. br. fol. 12. B. C. whothere saith that it was wont to be called Tenure in Villenage; and that this word Copihold is but a new name: yet it is not simply at the will of the Lord, but according to the custome of the Mannour. So that if a Copiholder breake not the custome of the Mannour, and thereby forfeit his Tenure, he seemeth not so much to stand at the Lords court-tie for his right, that hee may be displaced, hand ouer head at his pleasure. These customes of Mannours be infinite, varying in one point or other, almost in every severall Mannour. * First, some Copihold is fineable, and some certaine: that which is fineable, the Lord rateth at what fine or income he pleaseth; when the Tenant is admitted vnto it: that which is certaine, is a kinde of inheritance, * and called in many places customarie, because the Tenant dying, and the hold being void, the next of the blood paying the customarie fine, as two shillings for an acre, or such like, may not be denied his admission. Secondly, some Copiholders haue by custome the wood growing upon their owne land, which by law they could not haue, q. Kitchin vbi supra. Thirdly, Copiholders, some be such as hold by the Verge in ancient Demesne: and although they hold by Copie, yet are they in account a kinde of Freeholders: for if such a one commit felony, the King bath (annum, diem, & vastum) as in case of Freehold. Some other hold by common Tenure, called * Meere-copihold; and they committing felony, their land escheateth to the Lord of the Mannour forthwith, q. Kitchin fol. 81. cap. Tenants per verge. Vi. Demaine. Tenant by Copie of Court-roll, This in the Saxons time was called * Fothland.

3021 a Cozodie, dict. à Lat. Corrodo, and signifieth in our Common Law a summe of money, or allowance of meat and drinke, due to the King from an Abbey or other House of Religion, whereof he is the Founder, toward the reasonable sustenance of such a one of his seruants, being put to his pension, as he thinketh good to bestow it on. And the difference betweene a * Corodie and a Pension, seemeth to be, that a Corodie is allowed toward the maintenance of any the Kings seruants, that liueth in the Abbey: a Pension is given to one of the Kings Chaplaines, for his better maintenance in the Kings seruice, untill hee may be provided of a Benefice. Of both these reade q. Fitz. Nat. br. fol. 230. 231. 233. who there setteth downe all the Corodies and Pensions certaine that any Abbey, when they stood, was bound to performe vnto the King. There is mention also of a Corodie in Stawm. prærog. fol. 44. And this seemeth to be ancient Law. For in Westminster. 2. cap. 25. it is ordained that an Assise shall lie for a Corodie. It is also apparant by the Statute An. 34. & 35. H. 8. cap. 16. that Corodies belonged sometimes to the Bishops from Monasteries: And by the New Termes of Law, that a Corodie may bee due to a common person by grant from one to another, or of common right, to him that is Founder of a Religious House, not holden in Frank Almoyne. For that tenure was a discharge of all Corodies in it selfe. By which Booke it appeareth also, that a Corodie is either certaine or uncertaine, and that it may be for life or yeeres, in Taile, or in Fee.

3109 a County or Shire. G. Conté, Comté, I. Comtado. H. Condado. L. Comitatus, us, dict. à Comitè, quod ille terre tractus ad comitem pertinebat, the one dict. à Gal. Conté suprà, & Shire, from the Saxons their word scipian, i. diuidere, partiri, both containing a circuit or portion of the Realme, into the which the whole Land is diuided, for the better gouernment thereof, and the more easie administration of Iustice. So that there is no part of the Kingdome, that lieth not within some Countie, and every Countie is gouerned by a yeerely Officer, whom we call a Shyreue. Of these Counties there be foure of speciall marke, which therefore are termed Countie Palatines. Vi. Palatine, * as the Countie Palatine of Lancaster, of Chester, of Durham, and of Ely. And this Countie Palatine is a Iurisdiction of so high a nature, that whereas all Ples touching the life or maine of man, called Ples of the Crowne, be ordinarily held and sped in the Kings name, and cannot passe in the name of any other; the chiefe Gouernours of these, by especiall Charter from the King, did heretofore send out all Writs in their owne name, and did all things touching Iustice, as absolutely as the Prince himselfe in other Counties, onely acknowledging him their Superiour and Soueraigne. But by the Statute q. An. 27. H. 8. cap. 25. this power is much abridged. There be likewise * Counties Corporate, as appeareth by the Statute q. Anno 3. Edw. 4. cap. 5. and these be certaine Cities, or ancient Boroughs of the Land, upon which the Princes of our Nation haue thought good to bestow such extraordinary liberties. Of these the famous Citie of London is one, and the principall, Yorke another. q. Anno 32. H. 8. cap. 13. the Citie of Chester, q. Anno 42. Elizab. cap. 15. Canteburie, q. Lambert Eiren. lib. 1. cap. 9. And to these may be added q. Bristow and many moe, as Kingston upon Hull, q. Anno 32. H. 8. cap. 26. And the Countie of Litchfield, q. Cromptons Iustice of Peace, fol. 59. a. The Countie of the Towne of Hauorford, q. West. Anno 35. H. 8. cap. 26. Of these Counties or Shires, one with another, there are reckoned in England seuen and thirtie, besides twelue in Wales. The word Comitatus is used also for a Iurisdiction or Territorie among the Feudists. Vi. Palatine.

b a Countie-Court, (Curia Comitatus) by Mr. Lambard is otherwise called Curia Conuentus, in his explication of Saxon words, and diuided into two sorts: one retaining the generall name, as the County-court held every moneth by the Shyreue, or his Deputie the Vnder-shyreue, wherof you may reade in Cromptons Iurisdic. fol. 231. The other called the Turne, held twice every yeere, once after Michaelmas, and againe once after Easter, Magna Charta, cap. 35. and that within one moneth after each Feast. This Countie-Court had in old times the cognitiõ of great matters, as may appeare by Glanville lib. 1. cap. 2. 3. 4. From this Court are exempted only Arch-bishops, Bishops, Abbots, Priors, Earles, Barons, all Religious men and women, and all such as haue Hundreds of their owne to be kept. Vi. plura in Turne.

d a Court, Curia, which signifieth * one of thirtie parts, into which Romulus diuided the whole number of the Romans, sometime also the Senate house. Court with us signifieth diuersely, as the house where presently the King remaineth with his ordinary retinue, and also the place where Iustice is iudicially ministred. Of which you may finde two and thirtie severall sorts in q. M. Cromptons Booke of Iuridictions well described; and of them most be Courts of Record, some be not, and therefore are accounted base Courts, in comparison of the rest. Besides these also there are * Courts Christian, q. Smith de repub. Angl. lib. 3. cap. 9. which are so called, because they handle matters especially concerning Christianitie, and such as without good knowledge in Diuinitie, cannot be well iudged of, being held heretofore by Archbishops and Bishops, as from the Pope of Rome, because he challenged the superiourtie in all causes spirituall: but sithence they hold them by the Kings authoritie (virtute magistratus sui) as the Admirall of England doth his Court. Whereupon it procedeth, that they send out their precepts in their owne names, and not in the Kings, as the Iustices of the Kings Courts doe. And therefore as the appeal from these Courts did lie to Rome, now by the Statute Anno 25. H. 8. cap. 19. it lieth to the King in his Chancerie.

(t) e the Courts of the Prouinciall Councils of the Marches of Wales and Yorke. Vi. sub voce Marches.

f a Court-Leet, or Law-day. Vi. Leet.

g a Court-Baron, Curia Baronis, is a Court that every Lord of a Manour (which in ancient times were called Barons) hath within his owne premisses. Barons in other Nations haue great territories and Iurisdiction from their Soueraignes, as may be proued out of q. Cassianus de gloria mundi, part. 5. considerat. 56. by q. Vincent. de Franchis descif. 211. and many others. Of this Court Baron you may reade your fill in q. Kitchen, that writeth a large booke of it, and of Court Leet, q. Sir Edward Coke in his fourth Booke of Reports, amongst his Copihold Cases, fol. 26. b. saith that this Court is two after a sort: and therefore if a man hauing a Manour in a Towne, and doe grant the inheritance of the Copiholders thereunto belonging, unto another, this Grantee may keepe a Court for the customary tenants, and accept surrenders to the use of others, and make both admittances and grants. The other Court is of Free-holders, which is properly called the Court Baron, wherein the suiters, that is, the Free-holders be Iudges, whereas of the other, the Lord or his Steward is Iudge.

h a Court of Piepouders. Vi. Piepouders.

i a Court Christian, Curia Christiana. Vi. Court, Curia suprà.

k a Court of Requests, Curia Requisitionum, siue Requestarum, seu requisitorum, is a Court of equitie of the same nature with the Chancerie. Vi. Request. (t) The forme of the proceeding is generally alike, onely this Court instead of the leading Writ of Subpœna useth a Priuy Seale; or their Messenger, a proper officer of the Court, and whereas in stead of iij. s. viij. d. for summons by Sub Pœna, you pay viij. s. for the Priue Seale; and viij. s. viij. d. for the Messenger and partie summoned; this great burden at the very entrance into a suit here, doth much binder the Court, if they duly consider it.

m a Court or yard. G. La cour d'vne maison. I. Corte diuinitas; Cortile. H. Corral, Pátio, fortè quia patet, ut L. Atrium, à Gr. αἶθρον, i. subdiale.

Custom is all one in signification with our common Lawyers, and Ciuilians, being by them both accounted a part of the Law. Consuetudo quandoque pro lege seruatur (sicut q Bracton) in partibus ubi fuerit more vntentium approbata. Longæui enim temporis, vñs, & consuetudinis non est vilis autoritas: li. 1. cap. 3. It may be thus not vnaptly defined: Custom is a Law or Rite not written, which being established by long vse and the consent of our Ancestours, hath bene, and is daily practised. Our Ancestours, and those of our kindred that are vltra tritauum, i. the father of the great grandfather, li. 4. §. Parentem. & de in ius vocando, l. vi. §. Parentes, de gradibus & affini: & nominibus eorum. So that allowing the father to be so much older than his son, the grandfather so much elder than him, and so forth vsque ad tritauum: nec canot say that this or that is a Custom, except we can iustifie that it hath continued so one hundred yeeres. For tritauus must be so much elder than the partie that pleadeth it: yet because that is hard to proue, it is enough for the prooue of a custom by Witnesses in the Common Law (as I haue credibly heard) if two or more can depose that they heard their fathers say, that it was a custom all their time, and that their fathers also heard their fathers say, that it was likewise a custom in their time. If it be to be proued by Record, the continuance of one hundred yeeres will serue. Custom is either generall or particular. * Generall I call that which is current thorow England: of which sort you shall finde diuers in the Doctor and Student, li. 1. cap. 7. very worthy to be knowne. * Particular is that which belongeth to this or that County, as Gauelkinde to Kent, or to this or that Lordship, City, or Towne. Custom differeth from Prescription: for that Custom is common to more, and Prescription (in some mens opinion) is particular to this or that man. Again * Prescription may be for a farre shorter time than a Custom, viz. for five yeeres, or for one yeere or lesse. Example of five yeeres Prescription, you haue in the leuying of a fine. For if a fine duly leuied of Lands or Tenements bee not impugned within five yeeres, it excludeth all claime for euer. And if a man omit his continuall claime for a yeere and a day, then the Tenant in possession prescribeth an immunitie against the entry of the Demandant and his heire, q Fitzh. nat. br. fo. 79. q Termes of the Law, verbo Continuall Claime. Out of our Statutes you may haue greater diuersity: which see collected in the Institutes, q titulo De vsu cap. & longi temporis prescript. So that Brissionius l. 14. de verb. sign. seemeth to say truly, that Prescription is an exception founded upon so long time ranne and past, as the Law limiteth for the pursuit of any action. An example may be taken from those Statutes, q Anno 1. H. 8. cap. 4. which inacteth, that in all actions popular, information shall be made within three yeeres after the offence committed, or else be of no force. Of like nature is the Statute q Anno 7. H. 8. cap. 3. which in some cases maketh one yeeres prescription sufficient against informations. * Custom is also used for the Tribute or toll that Merchants pay to the King for carrying in and out merchandize, q Anno 14. Ed. 3. Stat. 1. cap. 21. In which signification it is Latined Customa, q Reg. orig. fo. 138. a. 129. a. And lastly for such seruices, as Tenants of a Mannour owe vnto their Lord, q New booke of Entries, verbo Custom.

3402 Custos Breuium, is the principall Clerke belonging to the Court of Common Plees, whose Office is to receive and keepe all the Writs, and put them vpon files, euery Returne by it selfe: And at the end of euery Terme, to receive of the Protonotaries, all the Records of Nisi prius, called the postea. For they are first brought in by the Clerke of Assise of euery circuit to the Protonotarie, that entred the issue in that matter, for the entering of the iudgement. And then doe the Protonotaries get of the Court peremptory day, for euery party to speake what he hath to alleage in arrest of iudgement: which day being past, he entretb the verdict and iudgement thereupon, into the Rolls of the Court: and that done, he doth in the end of the Terme deliver ouer to the Custos Breuium all the Records of Nisi prius which came to his hands that Terme: which received, he bindeth into a bundle, and bestoweth them. The Custos Breuium also maketh entry of the Writs of Couenant, and the concord vpon euery fine: and maketh forth exemplifications and Copies of all writs, and Records in his Office, and of all fines leuied: The fines after they be ingrossed, the parts thereof are diuided betwene the Custos Breuium and the Chirographer: whereof the Chirographer keepes alwaies with him the Writ of Couenant, and the note; the Custos Breuium keepeth the Concord, and the foot of the fine: vpon the which foot the Chirographer doth cause the Proclamations to be endorsed, when they be all proclaimed. min, &c. Daies were called by the Heathens and Romans of the Latine Dij, that is, Gods, which they then worshipped, amongst whom were the 7. Planets, vnto each of which they dedicated a day of the weeke, and called it by the name of that Planet which had the first houre of that day.
The names of the 7. Planets are these, in order thus: Saturne, Iupiter, Mars, Sol, Venus, Mercurie, Luna. Now note that in the naturall day there be 24. houtes, and Planets. 7. which doe gouerne these 24. houtes after this manner: The first Planet hath the first houre (beginning at midnight till one of the clocke) the second hath the second, and so vnto the seuenth: Againe the first planet hath the eighth houre, the second the ninth, so vnto 14. Afterwards the first Planet hath the 15. houre, the second the 16. and so forth to 21. Then yet againe the first Planet hath the 22. houre, the second the 23. the third Planet the 24. houre, and so the whole naturall day of 24. houtes is finished and ended. Therefore the
q. Planet that followeth shall haue the first houre of the following day, and so that day shall take his name of that Planet. As for example, suppose this day were Saturday, let vs begin with his Planet being first as they lie in order, Saturne, Iupiter, Mars, Sol, Venus, Mercurie, Luna, as before: therefore for this Saturday, the Planet Saturne hath the first houre, from midnight till one of the clocke, Iupiter till 2. Mars till 3.
Sol till 4. Venus till 5. Mercurie till 6. Luna till 7. Then Saturne againe till 8. Iupiter 9. Mars 10. Sol 11. Venus 12. Mercurie 13. Luna 14. Then Saturne againe 15, Iupiter 16. Mars 17. Sol 18. Venus 19. Mercurie 20. Luna 21. Then once againe Saturne 22. Iupiter 23.
Mars 24. and the last of that day: then followes Sol, which is to haue the first houre of the next day, which is called Sunday, in Latine Dies Solis, and so consequently you shall finde the daies of the weeke to fall vnder their proper Planets, by reckoning them and the houtes as aboue I haue told you, beginning the first houre at midnight till one of the clocke.

A Deane.

3507 a Deane. H. Deán. G. Doyen. I. Decano. T. Cyn Dechant. B. Deken. Sax. decen. L. Decanus. Gr. δεκανός, à δεκα, i. decem, because a Deane is an Ecclesiasticall Magistrate, and hath power over ten Canons, at the least. Howbeit in England wee use to call him a Deane, that is the next under the Bishop, and chiefe of the Chapter, ordinarily in a Cathedrall Church: and the rest of the Societie or Corporation we call Capitulum, the Chapter. Vi. Chapter. But this word how diversly it is used, reade q̄ Linwood tit. de judicijs, cap. primo verbo, Decani rurales, i. Deanes rurales, are said to be certaine persons, that have certaine jurisdiction Ecclesiasticall over other Ministers and Parishes neere adjoining, assigned unto them by the Bishop, and Archdeacon, being placed and displaced by them. As there be two foundations of Cathedrall Churches in England, the old, and the new, (the new be these which Henry the eight upon suppression of Abbeyes, transformed from Abbot, or Prior, and Couent, to Deane and Chapter,) so there be two meanes of creating these Deanes. For these of the old foundation are brought to their dignitie much like Bishops: the King first sending out his Congé d'elire, * Vi. Congé d'elire, to the Chapter, the Chapter then chusing, the King yielding his Royall assent, and the Bishop confirming him, and giving his mandate to install him. Those of the new foundation, are by a shorter course installed by virtue of the Kings letters patents, without either election, or confirmation. This word is also applied to divers, that are the chiefe of certaine peculiar Churches, or Chappels, as the Deane of the Kings Chappell, the Deane of the Arches, vj. Arches, the Deane of Saint George his Chappell in Windsour, the Deane of Bockin in Essex. The Corporation consisting of Deane and Chapter, they may jointly purchase lands and tenements to the use of their Church, and successours, and every one severally likewise may purchase to the use of himselfe, and his heires, q̄ New termes of Law.

c a Debate-maker, or make-bate. G. Qui facit debát. L. Incensor, q̄ qui incendit. Vi. Contentions.

3517 Debet & solet, it is said in the q̄ Old Nat. br. fol. 98. This Writ (De facta molendini) being in (the Debet and Solet) is a Writ of right, etc. and againe, fol. 69. A Writ of (Quod permittat) may be pleaded in the Countie before the Shyreue, and it may be in the Debet, and in the Solet, or in the Debet without the Solet, according as the Demaundant claimeth. Wherefore note that those Writs that be in this sort brought, have these words in them, as formall words not to be omitted, And according to the diversitie of the case, both Debet and Solet, are used, or Debet alone, that is, if a man sue to recover any right by a Writ, whereof his Auncestor was disseised by the Tenent or his Auncestor, then berseith only the word Debet, in his Writ: because Solet is not fit, by reason his Auncestor was disseised, and the custome discontinued: but if he sue for any thing, that is now first of all denied him, then he use both these words (Debet, and Solet) because his Auncestors before him, and he himselfe usually enjoyed the thing sued for, as suit to a mill, or common of pasture, until this present refusal of the Tenent. The like may be said of (Debet) and (Detinet) as appeareth by the q̄ Register orig. in the Writ De Debito, fol. 140. a. cap.

3542 a Deceptione, is a Writ that lieth against him that deceitfully doth any thing in the name of another, for one that receiveth harme or damage thereby, q. Fitzh. nat. br. fo. 95. This writ is either original, or iudiciall, as appeareth by the, q. old Nat. breu. fol. 50. where you may reade the use of both. For some satisfaction, take these words of that booke: This Writ of deceit, when it is original, then it lieth in case where deceit is made to a man by another, by which deceit he may be disherited, or otherwise euill intreated: as it appeareth by the q. Register. And when it is iudiciall, then it lieth out of the Rolles of Record: as in case where (Scire facias) is sent to the Shyreue, that he warne a man to be before the Iustices at a certaine day, and the Shyreue returne the Writ serued: whereas the said man was not warned, by which the partie that sueth the (Scire facias) recovereth, then the party which ought to haue bene warned, shall haue the said Writ against the Shyreue. q. New termes of Law, verbo Deceit, saith that the originall Writ of deceit lieth, where any deceit is done to a man by another, so that hee hath not sufficiently performed his bargain or promise. In the Writ iudiciall, he conuicteth with the former booke. See the q. Reg. orig. fo. 112. and the q. Reg. iudiciall in the Table, verbo Deceptione.

times I finde mention of these, as in q Britton cap. 12. who saith in the Kings person (as he writes his whole Booke) Vide Britton in litera B. in this manner: Wee will, that all those which be fourteen yeeres old, shall make oath, that they shall be sufficient and loyall unto us, and that they will be neither felons, nor assenting to felons. And we will that all be (en dozeine & pleuis per dozeniers) that is, proferre themselves to be of this or that dozein, and make or offer suretie of their behauiour by these or those dozeniers, except religious persons, Clerkes, Knights, and their eldest sonnes, and women. And q Kitchin out of the Register, and Britton saith thus: Religious persons, Knights, Clerkes, or women, shall not be Deceiniers, fol. 33. So that hereby I gather, that of latter times this word signified nothing but such an one, as by his oath of loyaltie to his Prince (for none ordinarily findeth suretie at this day) is settled in the combination or societie of a dozein. And a dozein seemeth now to extend so farre as a Leet extendeth, because in Leets only this oath is ministered by the Steward, and taken by such as are twelue yeeres old and vpwards dwelling within the compasse of the Leet, where they are sworne. q Fitzherb. Nat. br. fol. 161. a. The particulars of this oath you may reade in q Bracton lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 1. num. 1. q Bracton setteth downe fifteen yeeres for the age of those that are sworne to the Kings peace, but lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 11. num. 5. becometh twelue yeeres. Vide q Inlaugh. A man may note out of the premisses, diuersities betwene the ancient and these our times; in this point of Law and government, as well for the age of those that are to be sworne, as also that * Decennier is not now used for the chiefe man of a Dozen, but for him that is sworne to the Kings peace: And lastly, that now there are no other Dozens but Leets, and that no man ordinarily giueth other securitie for the keeping of the Kings peace, but his owne oath: and that therefore none answereth for anothers transgression, but every man for himselfe. And for the generall ground this may suffice. Vi. Frankpledge.

- 3672 Demurre commeth of the French Demeurer, Lat. Demorari, i. manere in loco aliquo vel morari. It signifieth in our Common Law a kinde of pawse upon a point of difficultie in any action, and is used substan- tiuely. For in every action the controuersie consisteth either in the fact, or in the Law: if in the fact, that is tried by the Iurie; if in Law, then is the case plaine to the Iudge, or so hard and rare, as it breedeth iust doubt. I call that plaine to the Iudge, wherein he is assured of the Law, though perhaps the partie and his counsell yeeld not unto it. And in such the Iudge with his Assessors proceeds to Iudgement without further worke. But when it is doubtful to him and his Associates, then is there stay made, and a time taken, either for the Court to thinke further upon it, and to agree if they can, or else for all the Iustices to meet together in the Chequer Chamber, and upon bearing of that which the Sergeants shall say of both parts, to advise and set downe what is law. And whatsoever they conclude, standeth firme without further remedie. q. Smith de Repub. Anglo. lib. 2. cap. 13. q. West. calleth it a Demurer, in Chauncerie likewise, when there is question made whether a parties answer to a Bill of complaint, &c. be defective or not, and thereof reference made to any of the Bench, for the exami- nation thereof, and report to be made to the Court, q. 2. Danos enim olim rerum potius nomina, filiosque suos utunque alienigenos libertate donatos. A Deni- zen signifieth in our Common Law, an alien that is enfranchised here in England by the Princes Charter, and enabled, almost in all respects, to doe as the Kings native subiects doe: namely to purchase and to possesse lands, to be capable of any office or dignitie. Yet it is said to be short of naturalization, because a stranger naturalized may inherit lands by def- cent, which a man made only a Denizen cannot. And againe in the Charter whereby a man is made Denizen, there is commonly contained one clause or other, that abridgeth him of that full benefit which natural subiects doe enjoy. And when a man is thus enfranchised, he is said to be under the Kings pro- tection, or esse ad fidem Regis Angliæ, before which time he can enjoy no- thing in England, q. - b to Denye. Vi. Denie.
- 3690 a Denyson. Vi. Denyson.
- 3691 a Deodan, (Deodandum) is a thing giuen or forfeited (as it were) to God for the pacification of his wrath in a case of misadventure, whereby any Christian soule comes to a violent end, without the fault of any creature. For example, if a horse should strike his keeper, and so kill him; if a man in driving a cart, seeking to redresse any thing about it, should so fall, as the cart should presse him to death: if one should be falling of a tree, and giuing warning to one coming by when the tree were neere falling, and any of them should be slaine neuertheless by the fall of the tree. In the first of these cases, the horse, in the second, the cart and horses, and in the third, the tree is to be giuen to God, that is, to be sold and distributed to the poore, for an expiation of this dreadfull euent, though effected by vreasonable, yet senselesse and dead creatures, q. Stawford pl. cor. lib. 1. cap. 2. where- of also reade q. Bracton lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 5. and q. Britton cap. 7. and q. West parte prima symb. tit. Indictments sect. 49. And though this be giuen to God, yet is it forfeited to the King by law, as sustaining Gods per- son, and an executioner in this case, to see the price of these distributed to the poore, for the appeasing of God stirred up even against the earth and place, by the shedding of innocent blood thereupon. And it seemeth that this Law is grounded upon that in Exodus, cap. 21. Si cornu pecorie bos virum vel mulierem, ita ut moriatur, lapidabitur bos, neq; comedetur caro ejus; at Dominus ejus erit innocens. If an ox gore a man or woman, that he die, the ox shall be stoned to death, and his flesh shall not be eaten, but his master shall goe quit, q. Exod. cap. 21.
- 3692 De Deonerando, pro rata portionis, is a Writ that lieth where one is distrained for a rent, that ought to be payed by others proportionally with him. For example, a man holdeth ten Oxegangs of land by fealtie, and ten shillings rent of the King, and alienateth one Oxegang thereof to one, another to another in Fee. Afterward the Shyreue or other Officer commeth and distreineth only one of them for the rent, he that is distrained may haue this Writ for his helpe, q. Fitzh. Nat. br. fol. 234.
- 3693 to Depart, or goe away. G. Departir, à part, i. pars, because at par- ting the one goeth to one part, and the other to the other part, or way, quasi in aliam partem, d' en aller. I. Partir, Departir, Andar via. H. Partir, Def-pedir, i. se expedire, to dispatch and away. L. Abire, Abscedere, Discedere, à dis, nota separationis, & cedere, to give place, Facessere, q. cessare facere, to depart and leave off, q. Bud. loco se mouere, migrare, ab Heb. נָפְלִים magar, i. migravit. T. Weggehen, ab weg, i. via, & gehen, i. ire, Abweichen, abereiten. B. Werfren, weg-gaen. Gr. ἀπέρχου, ἀπέρχου.

3712 a Dereyne, (* Dirationare, vel Dirationare) may seeme to come of the French (Disaroyér, i. confundere, turbare) to confound, or turne out of order, or (Desranger, i. to set out of order) or lastly of the Norman word (Desrene) for with the Normans Desrene is nothing else but a prooue of the deniall of a mans owne fact. For q. Rubiginous in his Grand Customarie, cap. 122. & 123. maketh mention of (lex probabilis) & (lex deraisnia) legem probabilem, or probationem, he defineth to be a prooue of a mans owne fact, which he saith he hath done, and his aduersarie denietb; his example is this. A. sueth R. for a hog, saying, thou shouldst deliuer me a hog for two shillings six pence, which money F. paid thee, wherefore I demand my hog. R. answereth, it is true that thou sayest, and I deliuered thee thy hog, which I am readie to proue. Deraisnian he defineth to be a prooue of a thing that one denieth to be done by himselfe, which his aduersarie saith was done, defeating or confounding his aduersaries assertion (as you would say) and shewing it to be without, and against reason, or likelihood, which is auowed. In our Common Law it is used diuersly, first generally for to proue, as Dirationabit jus suum hæres propinquo, q. Glanville, lib. 2. cap. 6. and Habeo probos homines, qui hoc viderunt & audierunt, & parati sunt hoc dirationare, q. Idem lib. 4. cap. 6. and (Dirationauit terram illam in curia mea.) q. 3771  a Deuiſe, an inuention, a poſſe, embleme, conceit, coat or motto. H. * Deuiſe quid.

Deuiſa. I. Diuiſa. G. Deuiſe, f. Deuiſ, à Deuiſer, i. inuenire. Deuiſe autem proprie eſt teſſera, ſymbolum, ſeu ænigmaticum apothegma, quale in regum, nobilium, & generoſorum inſignijs videmus, ut in Regijs inſignijs, Exurgat Deus, diſſipentur inimici, & Dieu & mon droit, Deus & Ius meum, in inſignijs Principis, Ich Dien, i. Ego ſeruo, aut Veſter homo, and many other deuiſes in the armes and ſhields of diuers noble-men, and gentlemen.

b Deuiſe in our Common Law, is where a man in his teſtament, giveth or bequeatheth his goods or his lands to another after his deceaſe.
And where ſuch deuiſe is made of goods, if the executors will not deliver the goods to the deuiſee, the deuiſee hath no remedie by the Common Law: But it behooveth him to have a Citation againſt the executors of the teſtator to appear before the Ordinarie, to ſhew why he performeth not the will of the teſtator. For the deuiſee may not take the legacie, and ſerue himſelfe, but it muſt be delivered to him by the executors. It cometh from the French word Diuiſer, i. diſpartiri, diſcernere, ſeparare, diſtinguere, becauſe thoſe lands or goods which appertaine to the deuiſour, by this act are diſtributed into many parts. Wherefore I thinke it better written diuiſe than deuiſe. Hombeit it were not aſſurd to deriue this word from the French deuiſer, i. ſermocinari, conſabulari, conſilium conferre. For in this ſenſe, it agreeeth in ſome ſort with the nature of the act of the teſtator, and with the Etymologie of a Teſtament ſet downe by Juſtinian, who ſaith that * teſtamentum is, quaſi mentis teſtatio, tit. de teſtamentis ordinan. in Inſtitut. and teſtatio mentis, cannot be ſo well, as by talke and conference with our wiſe and ſkilfull friends. What deuiſes are good and what bad, you may ſee ſome in the g New termes of law. Verbo Deuiſe.

3921 Discontinuance, (Discontinuatio) Signifieth in the Common Law, nothing else but an interruption or breaking off: as discontinuance of possession, or discontinuance of proceffe. And the large discourse that J. Littleton hath about this Discontinuance is rather to shew cases wherein it is, or wherein it is not, than to define the thing. The effect of discontinuance of possession is this, that a man may not enter upon his owne land or tenement alienated, whatsoeuer his right be vnto it, of his owne selfe, or by his owne authoritie, but must bring his writ, and seeke to recover possession by Law. Examples you may haue store in his Termes of Law, verbo Discontinuance, and in J. Littleton eodem cap. with whom agreeth another in these words: But discontinuance of possession is indeed an impediment vnto a man for entering into his owne land or tenements, caused by the fact of one that alienated them contrary to right, and gaue Luerie and seizin of them, whereby the true owner is left onely to his action. See the J. New termes of Law, and the Institutes of the Ciuill Law, cap. 43. and see St. Edw. Cokes Report 1. 3. the case of fines fo. 85. b. The effect of discontinuance of plea is, that the instance is fallen, and may not be taken againe, but by a new suit afresh. For to be discontinued, and to bee put without day, is all one, and nothing else but finally to be dismissed the Court of that instance. West. part. 2. Simb. titulo Fines, sect. 115. So Crompton in his diuers Iurisdiccions, fol. 13. v. seib it in these words: If a Iustice seat be discontinued by the not coming of the Iustices, the King may renew the same by his writ, &c. In this signification J. Fitzherb. in his nat. br. v. seib the word diuers times: as Discontinuance of a Corodye, f. 193. A. To discontinue the right of his wife, fol. 191. L. & 193. L. made upon immovable goods, as the Grand cape, and petit cape, and thus it is interpreted by q. Horoman. de verb. feudal. verbo Districtus.
This differeth from an attachment in this point (among others) that a Distress cannot be taken by any common person, without the compass of his owne fee, q. Fitzh. nat. br. fol. 904. except it be presently after the cattell or other things be driven, or borne out of the ground by him that perceiveth it to be in danger to be distreined, q. New termes of the Law, 4020 * to Districat, or rid out of trouble. I. Districare, Estricare. U.

Extricer. L. Extricare, q. ex trici liberare, trici sunt capilli quod pullos gallinaceos inuoluant & impediunt. Trici significat generaliter alii instruments, stops, lets, or hindrances, but properly haire, or threads about chickens legs, which so span them that they cannot goe, and from hence by a metaphor taken for any kinde of incumbrance.

4021 a District, liberties, or precincts of a place. G. District, Distric.
H. Distrito, Distrito. I. Distrito. L. Districtus, a stringo, significat enim strictos limites vel fines. Gr. ἐπαρχία, ab ἐπὶ, i. dominium, ἐπαρχία, a ἐπὶ, i. potestas, dominatio. B. T. District, unde Marchagane dicitur comes districtus, vulgo Marchio. Vi. in Marquis.

b Districtus is sometimes used for the Circuit or Territorie within the which a man may be compelled thus to appearance, q. Cassan. de consuetud. Burgund. pag. 90. q. Britton cap. 120. and so likewise is Districtio in the Register original, fol. 6. b. Distress in the former signification is divided first into * finite, and infinite. Finite is that which is limited by law, how often it shall be made to bring the partie to trial of the action, as once or twice q. Old. nat. br. fol. 43. Distress infinite is without limitation until the partie come: as against a Lurie, that refuseth to appear, super certificatione Assise, the process is a (Venire facias) (Habeas corpora) and distresse infinite, q. Old nat. br. fol. 113. Then it is divided into a grand distresse, q. Anno 52. H. 3. cap. 7. which Fitzherbert calleth in Latine Magnam distinctionem, Nat. br. fol. 126. and an ordinarie distresse. A grand distresse is that, which is made of all the goods and cattels that the partie hath within the Countie, q. Britton cap. 26. fol. 52.
But see whether it be sometime not all one with a distresse infinite, Idem fol. 80. Whom also the statute of Marlbridge seemeth to agree, q. Anno 52. H. 3. cap. 7. & cap. 9. & cap. 12. See q. Old nat. br. fol. 71. 6.
See grand distresse what things bee distreynable, and for what causes.
See the q. New termes of Law, Verbo Distress. Of this also see more in Attachment.

c a Diuorce, is that separation betweene two, de facto, married together, which is à vinculo matrimonij, non solum à mensa & thoro. And therefore the woman so diuorced, receiveth all againe that shee brought with her. This is not, but only upon a nullitie of the marriage through some essentiall impediment, as consanguinitie, or affinitie within the degrees forbidden, precontract, impotencie, or such like. See the New Termes of Law.

 b Dowrie significeth in the Common Law two things: first, that which the wife bringeth to her husband in marriage, otherwise called ma-ritagium, marriage good: next, and more commonly, that which shee hath of her husband, after the marriage determined, if shee outlive him, q. Glanuille lib. 7. cap. 2. q. Bracton lib. 2. cap. 38. q. Britton cap. 101. in princ.
 And in Scotland (Dos) significeth iust as much, q. Skene de verborum sign. verbo Dos. The former is in French called Dot or Dost: the other Douaire, and by them Latined Doarium, or Donarium. It is not unreasonable to call the former a Dowrie, and the other a Dower, but I finde them confounded. For example q. Smith de Rep. Anglor. p. 105. calleth the latter a Dowrie, and Dower is sometime used for the former, as in q. Britton ubi supra, yet were it not inconuenient to distinguish them, being so divers. The Civilians call the former (Dotem) and the latter (Donationem propter nuptias.)

Sigon, de regno Ital. lib. 4. In some Nations at this day the Soueraignes of the Countrey are called by this name, as Duke of Swethen, Duke of Sauoie, Duke of Saxonie, &c. Heere in England Duke is the next in secular dignitie to the Prince of Wales. And (as Mr. Camden saith) heretofore in the Saxons times, they were called Dukes, without any addition, being but meere Officers and Leaders of Armies. After the Conquerour came in, there were none of this title until Edward the Firsts daier, who made Edward his sonne Duke of Aquitaine. And Edward the Third made his sonne Duke of Cornwall. After that there were more made, and in such sort, that their Titles descended by inheritance unto their Posteritie. Dutchie Court.

b Dutchie Court, is a Court wherein all matters appertaining to the Dutchie of Lancaster are decided, by the decree of the Chancellour of that Court. And the original of it was in Henrie the Fourth his daies, who obtaining the Crowne, by deposing Richard the Second, and having the Dutchie of Lancaster by descent in the right of his Mother, hee was seized thereof, as King, and not as Duke. So that all the Liberties, Franchises, and Jurisdictions of the said Dutchie, passed from the King, by his Grand Seale, and not by Livery, or Attournement, as the Possessions of Euerwicke, and of the Earldome of March, and such others did, which had descended to the King by other Ancestors than Kings. But at the last Henry the Fourth, by authority of Parliament, passed a Charter, whereby the Possessions, Liberties, &c. of the said Dutchie were severed from the Crowne. Yet Henry the Seuenth reduced it to his former nature, as it was in Henry the Fifths daies, & Cromptons Jurisdic. fol. 136. The Officers belonging to this Court, are the Chancellour, the Attourney, Receiver generall, Clerke of the Court, the Messenger. Beside these there be certaine Assistants of this Court, as one Attourney in the Exchequer, one Attourney of the Dutchie in the Chancery, foure learned men in the Law, retained of Counsell with the King in the said Court.

4476 Enquest (Inquisicio) the Enquest of Iurors, or by Iurie, which is the most usual trial of all causes both ciuill and criminall in our Realme. For in causes ciuill after prooffe is made of either side, so much as each partie thinketh good for himselfe, if the doubt be in the fact, it is referred to the discretion of twelue indifferent men empannelled by the Shyreue for the purpose: and as they bring in their verdict, so iudgement passeth. For the Iudges saith, the Iurie findes the fact thus: then is the Law thus: and so we iudge. For the Enquest in causes criminall, see Iurie, and see q. St. Tho. Smith de Repub. Angl. lib. 2. cap. 19. An Enquest is either of office, or at the wife of the partie, q. Stawf. pl. cor. lib. 3. cap. 12.

Vi. Entrance.

b an Entrée (Ingressus) a Gal. (Entrée, introitus, ingressus, aditus) and properly signifieth in our Common Law, the taking possession of lands or tenements. See Plowden Assise of fresh force in London, fol. 93. b. It is also used for a writ of possession: for the which see Ingressus: And reade West also part. 2. Symbol. titulo Recoueries, sect. 2. & 3. who there sheweth for what things it lieth, and for what it lieth not.

4506 Entrusion (Intrusio) in our Common Law, signifieth a violent or unlawfull entrance into Lands or Tenements, being utterly void of a possessor, by him that hath no right nor sparke of right unto them, q. Bracton lib. 4. cap. 2. For example, if a man step in upon any Lands, the owner whereof lately died, and the right Heire neither by himselfe, nor by others, as yet hath taken possession of them. What the difference is betwene Abatour and Intruder, I doe not well perceiue, except an Abatour be he, that steppeth into land void by the death of a Tenant for terme of life or yeeres. See Fitz. nat. br. fol. 203. F. The author of the new Termes of Law would haue abatement Latine (Interpositio-nem, aut introitum per impositionem) and to be restrained to him that entred before the Heire, after the decease of a Tenant for life, though the new booke of Entries, fol. 63. C. & 205. D. & 19. C. by his confession doth Latine (Abatement) by this word (Intrusionem.) See Abatement.
See Disseisin. See Britton cap. 65. Intrusion is also taken for the writ brought against an Intruder, which see in Fitz. nat. br. fol. 203.

b Entrusion degard, is a writ that lieth where the Infant within age entred into his lands, & holdeth his Lord out: for in this case the Lord

This Court is taken from the Normans, as appeareth by the grand Customary cap. 56. where you may finde the Eschequer thus described. The Eschequer is called an assembly of high iusticiers, to whom it appertaineth to amend that which other meener iusticiers have unadvisedly iudged. Others thinke, that it cometh from an old Saxon word (Scata) as writeth St. Tho. Smith, which signifieth treasure, taxation or imposts, whereof account is made in the chequer. This court consisteth as it were of two parts: whereof one is conuerfant especially in the hearing and deciding of all causes appertaining to the Princes coffers anciently called Scaccarium computorum, q. Ockam in his lucubrations: the other is called the receipt of the Eschequer, which is properly employed in the receiving and payment of money. q. Crompt. Jurisdic. fol. 105. defineth it to be a court of record, wherein all causes touching the reuenues of the Crowne are handled. The officers belonging to both these you may finde named in Mr. Camdens Britan. cap. Tribunalia Angliæ, to whom I refer you. c an Execution, G. Execución. I. Essecutione. H. Essecución, Execución. L. Executio, ónis, ab exequendo. Vi. an Accomplishing.

d Execution (Executio) in the Common Law signifieth the last performance of an act, as of a Fine, or of a Iudgement. And the execution of a Fine is the obtaining of actual possession of the things contained in the same, by virtue thereof: which is either by entrie into the lands, or by writ, whereof see q. West at large, part. 2. synb. titulo Fines, sect. 136, 137, 138. Executing of Iudgements, and Statutes, and such like, see in q. Fitz. nat. br. in Indice 2. verbo Execution. q. Sir Edw. Coke vol. 6. casu Blumfield, fol. 87. a. maketh two sorts of Executions, one finall, another with a (quousque) tending to an end. An Execution finall is that which maketh money of the Defendants goods, or extendeth his lands, and deliuereth them to the Plaintife: for this the partie accepteth in satisfaction: and this is the end of the suit, and all that the Kings Writ commandeth to be done. The other sort with a (quousque) is tending to an end, and not finall, as in the case of (capias ad satisfaciendum, &c.) this is not finall, but the bodie of the partie is to be taken, to the intent and purpose to satisfy the Demandant: and his imprisonment is not absolute, but untill the Defendant doe satisfie. Idem ibidem.

e Executione faciendá, is a Writ commanding execution of a Iudgement: the diuers uses whereof see in the table of the Register Iudicial, verbo Executione faciendá.

f Executione faciendá in Withernam, is a Writ that lieth for the taking of his cattell, that formerly hath conueied out of the Countie the cattell of another, so that the Bailiffe hauing authoritie from the Shireue to replevie the cattell so conueied away, could not execute his charge, q. Regist. orig. fol. 82. b. Vi. Withernam.

g an Executioner or hangman: ita dict. because he doth execute that iudgement which is pronounced by the Iudge against the malefactor. Vi. Hangman.

4702 an Executor. G. Executér. I. Essecutóre, Essecutóre. H. Essecutór, Executór. L. Executor, óris, ab exequendo. Gr. ἀποκαταστάς, ab ἀποκαταστήω, i. exequor, ex ἀπό, i. de, ex, & καταστήω, i. compléo, perficio. B. Wt-schreien. T. Wt-schreien, Wt-schreien.

b Executor. G. Executér. I. Essecutóre. H. Executór. L. Executor, diff. ab exequendo, as he that is appointed by any man in his last Will and Testament to haue the disposing of all his substance according to the contents of the said Will. This Executor is either particular or vniuersall: Particular, as if this or that thing only be committed to his charge: Vniuersall, if all. And this is in the place of him whom the * Ciuilians call haeredem, and the Law accounteth one person with the partie whose Executor he is, as hauing all aduantage of action against all men, that he had, so likewise being subiect to euery mans action as farre as himselfe was. This Executor had his beginning in the Ciuill Law, by the constitutions of the Emperours, who first permitted those, that thought good by their Wills to bestow any thing vpon good and godly vses, to appoint whom they pleased to see the same performed: and if they appointed none, then they ordained, that the Bishop of the place should haue authoritie of course to effect it, l. 28. C. de Episcopis & Clericis. And from this time and experience hath wrought out the use of these Vniuersall Executors, as also brought the administration of their goods, that die without Will, vnto the Bishop.

(†) b Exemplification is a drawing out of an example, copie, transcript, counterpane or draught out of an originall record, as if any grant which hath passed the Great Seale be inrolled in the Rolles; and contains more mens estates than one, the originall grant can remaine but in one mans hands; or in case where the originall is lost you would Exemplifie the same, * you must first search in the Chappell of the Rolles for the Inrolement thereof, which being found, any Clarke of that office may engrosse the same: then must you get it examined with the Inrolement by two Masters of the Chancery, who must testifie the said Examination vnder their hands, and then (it being ready for the Great Seale) you must beare the Docket thereof vnto the Lord Chancellor or Lord Keeper of the Great Seale, to examine and peruse the same, which being by him allowed, it may passe the Great Seale, and be Exemplified, q. Powels directions for search of Records, pag. 13. lin. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, &c.

c Exemplificatione, is a Writ granted for the exemplification of an originall. See the Register origin. fol. 290.

b to Extend (Extendere) significeth in our Common Law to value the lands or tenements of one bound by statute, &c. that hath forfeited his bond to such an indifferent rate, as by the yearly rent the obligee may in time be payed his debt. The course and circumstances of this, see in Fitz. nat. br. fol. 131. Brief d' execution for statute Merchant.

c to Extendi facias is a writ ordinarily called a writ of extent, whereby the value of lands, &c. is commanded to be made and leuied in diuers cases: which see in the table of the Register originall.

(†) d Extension, or a stretching out. G. H. Extensión. I. Estensión. L. Extensio, onis.

e to Extent (Extenta) hath two significations, sometime signifying a writ or commission to the Shirecuc for the valuing of lands or Tenements: Register Iudiciall in the Table of the booke: sometime the act of the Shirecuc or other Commissioner upon this writ, q. Brook. titulo. Extent. fol. 313.

b to Extinguishment, in our Common Law significeth an effect of Consolidation: for example, if a man haue due unto him a yearely rent out of any lands, and afterwards purchase the same lands, now both the propertie and rent are consolidated, or united in one possession, and therefore the rent is said to be extinguished. In like manner it is, where a man hath a Lease for yeares, and afterwards buyeth the propertie, this is consolidation of the propertie and the fruits, and as an Extinguishment of the Lease. See the Termes of Law.

(†) 4768 * Extirpation, a rooting out. G. H. Extirpation. I. Estirpatione. L. Extirpation, onis, ab ex, & stirps, is.

b Extirpation, is a writ Iudiciall, that lieth against him, who after a Verdict found against him for land, &c. doth maliciously ouerthrow any house upon it &c. and it is twofold, one ante Iudicium, the other post Iudicium: Register Iudiciall fol. 13. 56. 58.

b Extortion (Extortio) significeth in our Common Law, an unlawful or violent wringing of money or money-worth from any man: for example, if any officer by terrifying any of the Kings subiects in his office, take more than his ordinarie duties, he committeih and is inditable of extortion. * To this (by Mr. Wests iudgement) may be referred the exaction of vnlawfull vsurie, winning by vnlawfull games, and (in one word) all taking of more than is due, by colour or pretense of right: as excessive toll in Milners, excessive prices of ale, bread, victuals, wares, &c. q. West part. 2. Symb. titulo Indictments, sect. 65. q. Manwood saith, that Extortion is colore officij, and not virtute officij, part. 1. of his Forest Lawes, pag. 216. q. Crompton in his Iustice of peace, fol. 8. hath these words in effect. Wrong done by any man is properly a trespassse: but excessive wrong done by any, is called extortion: and this is most properly in Officers, as Shirecucs, Maiors, Bailiffes, Escheaters, and other Officers whatsoever. Great diuersitie of cases touching extortion, you may see in q. Cromptons Iustice of peace, fol. 48. b. & 49. & 50. See the difference betweene colore officij, and virtute vel ratione officij, q. This word is found q Anno 9. H. 5. Stat. 2. cap. 7. thus: Item, that the King doe to be ordained good and iust weight, of the noble, halfe-noble, and farthing of gold, with the rates necessarie to the same, for every Citie, &c. And he that holdeth land by this only oath of fealtie, holdeth in the freest manner that any man in England under the King may hold: because all with us that haue fee, hold per fidem & fiduciam, that is, by Fealtie at the least, q. Smith de Rep. Ang. lib. 3. cap. 8. For Fidelitas est de substantia feudi, q. Dnar. de feud. c. 2. n. 4. This Fealtie is also used in other Nations, as the Lombards and Burgundians, q. Cassan. consuet. Burgund. fol. 419. & 420. And indeed the very first creation of this tenure, it grew from the love of the Lord towards his followers, so did it binde the Tenant to Fidelitie, as appeareth by the whole course of the Feods: and the breach thereof is losse of the Fee, q. Duar. de Feud. cap. 14. n. 11. q. Hotom. de verb. Feudal. sheweth a double Fealtie: one generall, to be performed by every Subject to his Prince: the other speciall, unto their Land-Lord. This Fealtie speciall, is with us performed either by Free-men, or by Villeines. The forme of both see q. Anno 14. Edw. 1. When a Villeine shall doe Fealtie unto his Lord, he shall hold his right hand over the booke, and shall say thus: Heare you, my Lord A. that I B. from this day forth unto you shall be true and faithfull, and shall owe you Fealtie for the land that I hold of you in Villenage, and shall be iustified by you in bodie and goods: So helpe me God and all his Saints. - 4892 Fee, Feodum, aliàs Feudum, is used in our Common Law for all those lands which we hold by perpetuall right, q. Hotom. verbo Feodum, de verb. Feud. And by this name goe all lands and tenements, that are held by any acknowledgement of any superiority to a higher Lord. They that write of this subiect doe diuide all lands and tenements, wherein a man hath a perpetuall estate to him and his heires, into Allodium & Feudum: * Allodium is defined to be euery mans owne land, &c. which he possesseth merely in his owne right, without acknowledgement of any seruice, or payment of any rent unto any other: and this is a property in the highest degree. And of some it is called Allodium, ab a priuat. & laudum vel laudatio, ut sit pradium cuius nullus autor est nisi Deus. Est enim laudare, vel Nonio teste, nominare, quod & Bud. docuit ad l. Herenn. ff. her. instit. Prat. verbo Allodium. q. Hotom. in verb. Feud. * Feudum is that which we hold by the benefit of another, and in the name whereof we owe seruice, or pay rent, or both to a superior Lord. And all our land here in England, the Crowne land (which is in the Kings owne hands in the right of his Crowne) excepted, is in the nature of Feudum or Fee. For though many a man hath land by descent from his Ancestors, and many others haue deuely bought land for their money, yet is the land of such nature, that it cannot come to any, either by descent or purchase, but with the burden that was laid upon him who had Nouell Fee, or first at all received it as a benefit from his Lord, to him and to all such, to whom it might descend or any way be conueyed from him. So that there is no man here that hath directum dominium, i. the very property or demaine in any land, but the Prince in the right of his owne Crowne, q. Camb. Brit. For though he that hath Fee, hath lus perpetuum, and vile dominium, yet he oweth a dutie for it, and therefore is it not simply his owne. For he that can say most for his estate, saith thus: I am seised of this or that land or tenement in my demaine, as of Fee. Seisitus inde in dominico meo ut de feudo: and that is as much as if he said; It is my demaine or proper land after a sort, because it is to me and mine heires for euer, yet not simply mine, because I hold it in the nature of a benefit from another. * Fee is of two sorts: Fee absolute, aliàs Fee simple; and Fee conditionall, aliàs Fee taile. Fee simple, Feudum simplex, is that, whereof we are seised in these generall words, To vs and our heires for euer. Fee taile, Feudum talliatum, is that whereof we are seised to us and our heires, with limitation; that is, the heires of our bodie. And Fee taile is either generall or speciall. Generall is, where land is given to a man and the heires of his bodie: the reason whereof is given by q. Littet. c. 2. lib. 1. because a man seised of land by such a gift, if he marry one or more wiues, and haue no issue by them, and at the length marry another, by whom he hath issue, this issue shall inherit the land. Fee taile speciall is that, where a man and his wife be seised of lands to them, and the heires of their two bodies: the reason is likewise given by Littleton in the same place, because in this case, the wife dying without issue, and he marrying another by whom he hath issue, this issue cannot inherit the land, being specially given to such heires. This Fee taile hath the original from the Statute of Westm. 2. c. 1. which was made Ann. 13. Ed. 1. Yet see q. Bract. lib. 2. c. 5. n. 3. his verbis: Item, quedam absoluta & larga, & quedam stricta & coarctata, sicut certis hereditibus. To whom adde q. Plowd. casu Willion, fol. 235. a. b. & seq. For before that Statute, all land given to a man and his heires, either generall or speciall, was accounted in the nature of Fee, and therefore held to be so firmly in him to whom it was given, that, any limitation notwithstanding, he might alienate and sell it at his pleasure: much like that which the Civilians call nudum præceptum, binding rather by way of counsell and aduice, than compulsion or restraint. And this thing seeming vnreasonable to the wisdom of our Realme, because so a man meaning well to this or that posteritie of himselfe or his friends, might be forthwith deceived of his intention, the said Statute was made for redresse of this inconuenience, whereby it is ordained, that if a man give lands in Fee, limiting the heires to whom it shall descend, with a reuersion to himselfe or his heires for default, &c. that the forme and true meaning of his gift shall be obserued. He that hath Fee then, holdeth of another by some dutie or other, which is called seruice: And of this seruice, and the diuersitie thereof, see Chivalrie, and Seruitce. He that will learne from what fountaine those Feuds or Fees did first spring, let him reade q. Anthon. Conatus de meth. feud. c. 1. where he shall receive great light for his guide into so obscure a Dungeon. See Rege. This word Fee is sometime used with us for the compasse or circuit of a Lordship or Manour, q. Bract. lib. 2. c. 5. in these words: In eadem villa & de eodem feudo. Thirdly, it is used for a perpetuall right incorporeall, as to haue the keeping of prisons in fee, q. Old nat. br. fo. 41. Foster in Fee, eod. fol. 6. Rent granted in Fee, q. Anno 28. Ed. 1. Stat. 3. c. 8. Lastly, Fee significeth a reward or ordinarie dutie, that a man hath given him for the execution of his office, or the performance of his industry in his Art or Science: as the Lawyer or Physitian is said to haue his Fee, when he hath the consideration of his paines taken; the one with his Client, the other with his Patient.
- b. Fee expectant, is by the Feudists termed Feudum expectatium, or expectatiua, substantiuely used. q. Mat. de Affict. decif. 292. n. 2. f. 417. See Expectant.
- c. Fee ferme, Feudi firma, significeth in our Common Law, land held of another in Fee, that is, in perpetuall to himselfe and his heires, for so much yeerely rent as it is reasonably worth, more or lesse, so it be the fourth part of the Fee worth, q. Old tenures. See Exposit of the Statute of Glocester, anno 6. Edw. 1. without homage, fealtie, or other seruices, others than be especially comprised in the feofment. But by Fitzh. it seemeth, that the third part of the value may be appointed for the rent, or the finding of a Chaplaine to sing diuine Seruice, &c. Nat. br. fol. 210. c. And the nature of it is thus, that if the rent be behinde and vnpaid for the space of two yeeres, then the feoffour or his heires haue action to recouer the lands as their demesnes, q. Brit. c. 66. n. 4. But obserue out of q. West. symbol. p. 1. lib. 2. sect. 463. that the feoffement may containe seruices and suit of Court, as well as rent. And the author of the New Termes of Law saith, that Fee ferme oweth fealtie, though not expressed in the feofment, for that fealtie belongeth to all kinde of tenures. Vi. Firme.

b Felonte, (Felonía) alias Fallonia, q. Hostiens. Vi. Etym. in Fellon. We account any offence felony that is in degree next unto petit treason, and compriseth diuers particulars under it, as murder, theft, killing of a mans selfe, sodometry, rape, wilful burning of houses, & diuers such like, which are to be gathered especially out of Statutes, whereby many offences are daily made Felony, that before were not. Felony is discerned from higher offences by this, that the punishment thereof is death, except in Petit larcenie. * For petit larcenie, which is the stealing of any thing under the value of twelue pence, is Felonie, as appeareth by q. Broke tit. Coron. n. 2. His reason is, because the indictment against such a one must runne with these words, felonice cepit, and yet is this not punished by death, though it be losse of goods. A man may call that Felony, which is vnder petit treason, and punished by death: And of this there be two sorts, one higher, that for the first time may be releued by Clergie, another that may not. The cognition or knowing them is by Statutes. For Clergie is allowed, where it is not expressly taken away. Of these matters reads q. Stanf. lib. 1. pl. cor. à fine ca. 2. ad vique 39. and the Statutes, q. Lamb. Iust. of peace lib. ca. 7. in a Table drawne for the purpose, as also lib. 4. cap. 4. fol. 404. q. Crompt. in Iust. pac. fo. 32. &c. Felony is also punished by losse of lands not entayled, and goods or Chattels, as well Reall, as Personall, and yet the Statutes anno 37. H. 8. c. 6. Felony ordinarily worketh corruption of blood, though not, where a Statute ordeineth an offence to be Felony, and yet withall saith, that it shall not worke corruption of blood, as Anno 39. b Fine, Finis, à Lat. Finis, ut antè, and bath diners applications in our Common Law, sometime being used for a formall or ceremonious Conueyance of Lands or Tenements, or as q West saith, Tit. fines sect. 25. of any thing inheritable, being in esse, tempore finis, to the end to cut off all controuersies, q West, part 2. symb. sect. 1. defineth a Fine in this signification: Covenants made before Iustices and entred of Record. And out of q Glanville thus lib. 8. cap. 1. Finis est amicabile composio & finalis concordia, ex consensu & licentia Domini Regis, vel eius Iusticiariorum. & lib. 9. cap. 3. Talis concordia finalis dicitur, eo quod Finem imponit negotio, adeo vt neutra pars litigantium ab eo de cetero possit recedere. Et ex Bracton lib. 5. tract. 5. cap. 28. n. 7. Finis ideo dicitur Finalis concordia, quia imponit finem litibus, & est exceptio peremptoria. The author of the New Termes of Law, defineth it to be a Finall agreement, had betweene persons concerning any Land or Rent or other thing, wherof any suit or writ is betweene them hanging in any Court. See the new booke of Entries, verb. Fines. It appeareth by the Writers of the Common Law aboue named, that it is nothing but a composition or concord acknowledged and recorded before a competent Iudge, touching some hereditament or thing immoueable, that erst was in controuersie betweene those that be parties to the same concord, and that for the better credit of the transaction, being by impuacion made in the presence of the King, because it is leued in his Court, and therefore doth it binde Women couert, being parties, and others whom ordinarily the Law disableth to transact, onely for this reason, that all presumption of deceit or euill meaning is excluded, where the King is priuy to the act. This fine bath in it five essentiall parts: the originall writ taken out against the Comynor: the Kings licence giuing the Parties liberty to accord, (for the which he bath a fine called the Kings siluer, being accounted a part of the Crownes reuennue.) Thirdly, the concord it selfe, which thus beginneth: Et est concordia talis, &c. Fourthly, the note of the Fine, which an abstract of the originall concord, beginneth in this manner: Sc. inter R. que- rentem & S & E uxorem eius desorciatis, &c. Fifthly, the foot of the Fine, which beginneth thus: Hæc est finalis concordia facta in Curia Domini Regis apud Westm. à die Pasche in quindecim dies, anno &c. so as the foot of the Fine includeth all containing the day, yeere and place, and before what Iustices the Concord was made, q Coke vr. 6. cap. Teje, f. 38. 39. * This word Fine, sometime signifieth a summe of money paid for an income to Lands or Tenements let by lease. Sometimes an amends, pecuniarie punishment, or recompence vpon an offence committed against the King and his Lawes, or a Lord of a Manour. In which case a man is said facere finem de transgressionem cum Rege, &c. Registr. Iud. fol. 25. a. Vi. q Crompt. Iust. of peace fol. 141. b. 143. 144. q Lamb. Eirenarch. lib. 4. cap. 16. fol. 555. But in all those diuersities of vses, it bath but one signification, and that is a Finall conclusion, or end of differences betweene Parties. And in this last sense, where it is used for the ending and remission of an offence, q Bract. bath it lib. 2. cap. 15. n. 8. speaking of a Common fine that the Countie paieth to the King, for false iudgements or other trespasses, which is to be assessed by the Iustices in Eyre before their departure, by the oath of Knights and other good men, vpon such as ought to pay it, with whom agreeth the Statute anno 3. Edw. 1. cap. 18. There is also a common fine in Leets. Vi. q Kitch. fol. 13. a.

c Fine capiendo pro terris, is a writ lying for one that vpon conuiction by a lury, hauing his lands and goods taken into the Kings hand, and his body committed to prison, obtaineth fauour for a summe of money, &c. to be remitted his imprisonment, and his lands and goods to be redelivered unto him, q Regist. orig. fol. 132. a. d Fine pro redisseina capiendâ, &c. is a writ that lieth for the release of one laid in prison for a redissein, vpon a reasonable fine, q Regist. orig. fol. 222.

c Fine non capiendo pro pulcre placitando, is a writ to inhibit Officers of Courts, to take fines for faire pleading, q Regist. orig. fol. 179. See faire pleading.

f Fine force, seemeth to come of the French adiectiue Fin, i. crafty, Fine force, wily, and the substantiue Force, i. vis. It seemeth to signifie an absolute necessitie or constraint, not auoidable: and in this sense it is used Old nat. br. f. 78. and the Statute anno 35. H. 8. cap. 12. in Perkins Dower, f. 321. and q Plowd. f. 94. q Coke vol. 6. f. 111. a.

b * Forrest (Foresta) is a great or vast Wood. q. Mr. Manwood 2. par. of Forest Lawes, cap. 1. n. 1. thus defineth it: A Forrest is a certaine Territorie of Woodie grounds and fruitful Pastures, priuileged for wilde beasts and fowles of the Forrest, Chace, and Warren, to rest and abide in, in the safe protection of the King, for his Princely delight and pleasure, which Territorie of ground so priuileged, is Meered and Bounded with vnremouable marks, meeres and boundaries, either knowne by matter of Record or else prescription, and also replenished with wilde Beasts of Veneries or chase, and with great Courts of Vert, for the succour of the said wilde Beasts to haue their aboad in: for the preseruation and continuance of which said place, together with the Vert, and Venison, there are certaine particular Lawes, Priuileges, and Officers, belonging to the same, meet for that purpose, that are only proper vnto a Forrest, and not to any other place. The manner of making Forrest, as the same Author well setteth downe, part. 1. pag. 142. is this: The King sendeth out his Commission vnder the broad scale of England, directed to certaine discreet persons, for the view, perambulation, meering and bounding of the place, that he mindeth to * Afforest, which returned vnto the Chancery, Proclamation is made thorow out all the Shire where the ground li-eth, that none shall hunt or chase any manner of wilde beasts within that precinct, without the Kings speciall licence, after which hee appointeth ordinances, lawes, and Officers, fit for the preservation of the Vert and Venison: and so becommeth this a Forrest by matter of record. The properties of a Forrest are these in speciall, first a Forrest, as it is truly and stritly taken, cannot be in the hands of any but the Kings: the reason is giuen by

q. M. Manwood, because none hath power to grant Commission to a Justice in eire for the Forrest, but the King, q. Part. 1. pag. 87. The second propertie, be the courts, as the Iustice seat euerie three yeere, the Swaine-moore thrice euerie yeere: Idem eodem pag. 90. & part. 2. cap. 1.
num. 4. & 5. and the attachment once euerie fortie dayes. Idem eodem pag. 92. The third propertie may be the Officers belonging vnto it, for the preservation of the Vert and Venison, as first the Iustices of the Forrest, the Warden or Keeper, the Verders, the Forresters, Agistours, Regarders, Bayliffes, Bedels, and such like which you may see in their places.
See q. Manwood part. 2. cap. 1. num. 4. & 5. But the chiefe property of a Forrest, both by q. M. Manwood, part 1. pag. 144. and q. Crompton pag. 146. is the Swaine-mote, which (as they both agree) is no lesse incident vnto it, then the Court of Pyepowders to a faire. Other courts and Offices are not so requisite, in those Forrests that are in the hands of subiects, because they be not truly Forrests: but if this faile, then is there nothing of a Forrest remaining, but it is turned into the nature of a Chace. See Chace.

Free chappell.

f Free chappell, Libera capella, by some opinion, is a chappell founded within a Parish, for the service of God, by the deuotion and liberalitie of some good man, ouer and above the mother Church, unto the which it was free for the Parishioners to come or not to come, and endowed with maintenance by the founder, and thereupon called free. Others say, that those only be free Chappells, that are of the Kings foundation, and by him exempted from the Iurisdiction of the Ordinarie, but the King may licence a subiect to found such a Chappell, and by his Charter exempt it from the Ordinaries visitation also: that it is called free in respect it is exempted from the iurisdiction of the Diocesan, appeareth by the Regist. orig. f. 40. 41. These Chappells were all giuen to the King with chaunteries, ann. 1. Ed. 6. c. 14. Free Chappell of S. Martin le grand ann. 3. Edw. 4. cap. 4. & anno 4. Edw. 4. cap. 7.

e Free hold, or Free tenure. L. Allodium, quoddam apponitur feudo. Allodium proprium cuiusque hominis patrimonium, unde Ang. & ot. quod pro suo collocatur, q. Hotman. de verb. feodal. Aleu. franc. note, a Seignory or Lordship held without Homage, Fealty, Fine or Seruice, Franc-aleu, a free-tenant, Allode, free-hold is sometime taken in opposition to Villenage, q. Bracton li. 4. cap. 37. But Britton defineth it to be a possession of the soile, or seruices issuing out of the soile, which a Free-man holdeth in fee to him and his heires, or at the least for terme of his life, though the soile be charged with free seruices or others, cap. 32. Vi. Free.

b Free hold, liberum tenementum, is that Land or Tenement, which a man holdeth in Fee tayle, or at the least for terme of life, q. Bract. 2. cap. 9. The new expounder of the Law Termes, saith that Free-hold is of two sorts, in Deed, and in Law. In Deed, is the real possession of Land or Tenements in Fee, Fee tayle or for life: In Law, is the right that a man hath to such Land or Tenements, before his entry or seisure. q. Brit. defineth it to this effect: Frank-tenement or Free-hold is a possession of the soile, or seruices issuing out of the soile, which a Free-man holdeth in fee to him and his heires, or at the least for terme of his life, though the soile be charged with Free-seruices or others, cap. 32. Free-hold, is sometime taken in opposition to Villenage, q. Bract. lib. 4. cap. 37, 38. q. Mr Lamberd in his Explic. of Sax. words, verb. Terra ex scripto, saith, that land in the Saxons time was called either * Bokland, that is holden by Booke or Writing, or * Folcland, that is holden without writing. The former he reporteth, was held with farre better conditions, and by the better sort of Tenants, as Noble and Gentlemen, being such as we now call Free-hold; the latter was commonly in the possession of Clownes, being that which we now call at the will of the Lord. We finde in the Regist. iudiciali fol. 68. a. that he which holdeth land upon an execution of a Statute Merchant, untill he be satisfied the debt, tenet vt liberum tenementum sibi & assignatis suis, & fol. 73. b. We reade the same of a tenet per elegit, where the meaning is not, that such tenants be Free-holders, but as Free-holders for their time, that is, untill they haue gathered profits to the value of their debt. Free-holders in the ancient Law of Scotland were called Milites, q. Skene de v. s. verb. milites. The D. and Student saith, that the possession of Land, after the Law of England is called Frank-tenent or Free-hold, fol. 97. a.

5216 Freeborogh, alias Fridburgh, alias Frithborgh, frideburgum, dist. à Sax. frid, i. pax, & borga, i. sponsor, a surety for the peace or good behaiour. This is otherwise called after the French Frankpledge, the one being in use in the Saxons time, the other since the Conquest. Vi. Frankpledge, That it is all one thing, it appeareth by q. Mr. Lamberd, in his Explic. of Saxon words, verb. Centuria: and againe in the lawes of King Edward, set out by him, fol. 132. Eboracenses dicunt eandem * (Tienmannatale) i. decem hominum numerum, the tale of ten men. Hac securitas hoc modo fiebat, quod de omnibus villis totius regni, sub decennali fideiussione debebant esse vniuersi, ita quod si vnus ex decem foris fecerit, nonem ad rectum eum haberent, quod si ausu- geret, daretur lege terminus ei 31. dierum, vt questus interim & inueniens ad iusticiam Regis adduceretur, & de suo maleficio restauraret damnum quod fecerat. Est si adhuc foris faceret, de corpore suo iustitia fieret. Sed si infra predictum terminum inueniri non posset, &c. q. Bract. maketh men- tion of Fridburgum, lib. 3. tr. 2. cap. 10. in these words: Archiepiscopi, Episcopi, Comites, & Barones, & omnes qui habent, Soc & Sak, Tol & Team, & huiusmodi libertates, milites suos & proprios seruientes armi- geros, dapiferos & pincernas, camerarios, coquos, pistores, sub suo Fridburgo, habere debent. Item & isti suos armigeros & alios sibi ser- uientes, quod si quis forisfecerit ipsi domini sui habeant eos ad rectum, & si non habuerint soluant pro eis foris facturam. Et sic obseruandum erit de omnibus alijs qui sunt de aliquibus manupacijs. Out of those words we learne the reason, why great men were not combined in any ordinary dozeins, and that is, because they were a sufficient assurance for themselves and for their menial seruants, no lesse than the ten were one for another in ordinary dozeins. * 4. Orders of c Friar obseruant, (frater obseruans) is an order of Franciscans: for the better understanding of whom, it is to be noted, that of those four orders mentioned in the word (above) the Franciscans are minores tam Obseruantes quam Conuentuales & Capuchini, & Zecchus de Repub. eccl. tract. de regular. cap. 2. * These Friars obseruant you finde spoken of anno 25. H. 8. cap. 12. who be called Obseruants, because they are not combined together in any Cloyster, Couent, or Corporation, as the Conuentuals are: but onely tie themselves to obserue the rites of their Order, and more strictly than the Conuentuals doe: and upon a singularity of zeale, separate themselves from them, living in certaine places, and companies of their owne chusing. And of these you may reade Hospinian. de orig. & progr. Monachatus, f. 878. c. 38. Vi. Franciscanes.

Gard, custodia. G. Garde, in our Common Law, is a custodie or care of defence, but hath diuers applications: sometimes to those that attend upon the safety of the Prince, called Yeomen of the Guard: sometime to such as have the education of children vnder age, or of an Idiot: sometime to a Writ touching Wardship: which Writs are of three sorts, one called a right of Guard or Ward, in French Droit de gard, q. Fitz.
Nat. br. f. 139. the second is ejectment de gard. q. r. de d. f. L. the third is Ratiuement de gard. Idem, fol. 140. F. G. Vi. Gardein & ward.
a Gard, welt, or border of a garment, à Gal. Gardér, i. conseruare, quia conseruat vestem. (†) L. Limbus. Gr. negsds. G. Bord ou Bordure d' habiliment. I. Lista della veste. H. Borde de vestidura. Vi. Worder. c Gardein, custos. G. Gardien, and yet the German Warden is neere vnto it. It signifieth generally him that hath the charge or custodie of any person or thing, but most notoriously him that hath the education or protection of such people as are not of sufficient discretion to guide themselves and their owne affaires, as children and idiots, being indeed as largely extended, as both * tutor & curator among the Ciuilians. For whereas tutor is he that hath the government of a youth, untill he come to fourteene yeeres of age, and curator he that hath the disposition and ordering of his substance afterward, untill hee attaine to one and twentie yeeres, or that hath the charge of a frantick person, during his lunacie, the Common Lawyers vse but only Gardien or Gardian for both these.
And for the better vnderstanding of our Common Law in this thing, you must know, that as tutor is either testamentarius or à pratore datus ex l.
Atilia, or lastly legitimus, so we haue three sorts of Gardeines in England, one ordered by the Father in his last will, another appointed by the Iudge afterward, the third cast vpon the minor by the law and cus-tome of the Land. Touching the first, a man hauing goods and chattels neuer so many, may appoint a Gardian to the bodie or person of his childe, by his last will and testament, untill he come to the age of fourteene yeeres, and so the disposing and ordering of his substance, untill what time he thinketh meet, and that is most commonly the age of one and twentie yeeres.
The same may he doe, if he haue lands to neuer so great a value, so they hold not in capite of the King, nor of any other Lord by Knights seruice. And in the former case, if the father appoint no gardein to his childe, the ordinary may appoint one to order his moucables and chattels, untill the age of fourteene yeeres, at which time he may chuse his guardian himselfe, accordingly as by the Ciuill Law he may his curator. For one rule with the Ciuilians in this case is held, and that is, * Inuito curator non datur. And for his lands, if he hold any by copie of court roll, commonly the Lord of the Fee appointeth him a Guardian, untill hee come to the age of fourteene yeeres, and that is one, next of Kind to the minor of that side, that can hope for least profit by his death. If he hold by charter in socage, then the next of Kinde on that side, by which the land commeth not, is the Guardian, and hereupon called Guardian in socage. And that which is said here of Socage, seemeth to be true likewise in petit sergantie ann. 28.
Edw. 1. Stat. 1. And the reason of this * Fortescue giueth in his booke intituled, a Commendation of the politike law of England, cap. 44.
viz. because there might be suspicion, if the next kinsman on that side, by which the land descendeth should haue the custodie and education of the childe, that for desire of his land he might be intised to worke him some mis-chiefe. Lastly, if a man die seised of lands, holding by Knights seruice, leauing his heire in minority, that is, vnder one and twentie yeeres, the Lord of the Fee hath by law the custodie both of the heire and his land, untill he come to age. Vi. Stat. 1. ann. 28. Edw. 1. And the reason of this Fortescue likewise giueth, for that hee to whom by his tenure hee oweth Knights seruice, when he can performe it, is likeliest to traine him vp in martiall and ingenuous discipline, untill he be of abilitie. But Polidor Virgil in his Chronicle, lib. 16. saith, That it was nouum vestigaligenus excogitatum, to helpe Henry the third, being oppressed much with pouertie, by reason he receiued the Kingdome much wasted by the warres of his Ancestours, and therefore needing extraordinary helpe to vphold his estate. Yet the 33. chap. of the Grand Custum. maketh mention of this to haue bene vsed by the Normans. Here is to be obserued, whether land in Knights seruice held in capite, or of another Lord, or some of the King, and some another. If of the King, whether of the King alone, or not, all is one. For the King in this case is Guardian to the heires, both person and land by his prerogatiue, q. Stawnf. proreg. cap. 1. If he hold of a common Lord, it is either of one alone or more. If of one only, then is hee Guardian of both person and lands; if of more, then the Lord of whom he holdeth by the elder tenure, is Guardian of the person, and euery one of the rest hath the custodie of the land holden of himselfe. If the prioritie of the tenure cannot be discerned, then is he Guardian of the person that first happeth him, q. Term. of the Law, & Stawnf. f. 19. which maketh mention of Gardein in feit, and Gardein in droit, that is, in deed, and in law.
I take the first to be him that purchased or otherwise obtained the ward of the Lord of whom the land holdeth. The second him, that hath the right by his inheritance and signorie, q. Old Nat. br. f. 94. Then is there Gardein per cause de gard, who is he that hath the wardship of a minor, because he is Guardian of his Lord, being likewise in minority, q. Stawnf. f. 15. Vi.

- 5400 * Gauelkind, is a speciall and ancient kinde of Cessauit used in Kent, where this custome of Gauelkinde continueth: whereby the tenant shall forfeit his lands and tenements to the Lord of whom they are holden, if he withdraw from his Lord his due rents and seruices, after this manner as followeth. If any tenant in Gauelkinde, withhold his rent and his seruices of the tenement which he holdeth of his Lord, let the Lord seeke by the award of his court from three weekes to three weekes, to finde some distresse upon the tenements untill the fourth Court, alwayes with witnesses. And if within that time, he can finde no distresse in that tenement, whereby he may haue iustice of his Tenant, then at the fourth Court let it be awarded, that he shall take that tenement into his hand, in the name of a distresse, as if it were an ox or a cow, and let him keepe it a yeere and a day in his hand without manuring it: within which terme if the Tenant come and pay his arrearages, and make reasonable amends for the withholding, then let him haue and enjoy his tenement as his ancestors and hee before held it: and if he doe not come before the yeere and the day bee past, then let the Lord goe to the next Countie court, with his witnesses of his owne Court, and pronounce there this proceffe to haue further witnesses, and by the award of his Court (after the Countie court holden) hee shall enter and manure in those lands and tenements as in his owne. And if the Tenant come afterward, and will rehaue his tenements, and hold them as hee did before, let him make agreement with the Lord, according as it is anciently said. Haib he not since any thing giuen, nor haib he not since any thing payed: then let him pay V. li. for his error, before he become tenant or holder againe. See hereof 10. H. 3. Fitz. Cessauit 60. and statute 10. Edw. 2. of Gaucler in London, in the collection of statutes London 2. matter much tending to this purpose, that by this word Gaucler, the Lord shall haue the land for the ceasing of the Tenant. And see W. 2. cap. 21. which giueth Cessauit. There be some copies that haue the first verse thus written:
- Nisith yelde, and nisith gelde. Others thus; Nighefith yeld, and nighefith geld. Others thus; Nigondfith feld, and nigondfith geld. That is to say, Let him nine times pay, and nine times repay.
- * Gauelkinde. b * Gauelkind, is by Mr. Lamberd in his exposition of Saxon words, verbo Terra ex scripto, compounded of three Saxon words, gýfe, cal, cýn, giue all kin: omnibus cognatione proximis data. But M. Verstegan in his restitution of decayed intelligence, cap. 3. calleth it Gauelkind, q. giue all kind, (for kind in low Dutch is a childe) that is, giue to each childe his part. Morem hunc apud veteres ipsos Germanos inualluisse Tacitus memorat (in Germanor.) unde & nostratibus per Saxones deuoluisse non est dubium.

Teutonibus priscis, patrios succedit in agros Mascula stirps omnis, ne foret vlla potens.

It signifieth in our Common Law a custome, whereby the lands of the father is equally diuided at his death amongst all his sonnes, or the land of the brother equally diuided among the brethren, if he haue no issue of his owne, q. Kitch. fol. 102. This custome is said to be of force in diuers places of England, but especially in Kent, as the said Author reporteth, shewing also the cause why Kentish-men rather vse this custome, than any other Province, viz. because it was a composition made betweene the Conqueror and them, after all England beside was conquered, that they should enioy their ancient customes, whereof this was one. For Mr. Camden in his Britannia, saith thus: Cantiani ea lege Gulielmo Normanno se dediderunt, vt patrias consuetudines illas retinerent, illamque inprimis quam Gauelkind nominant. Hæ terræ quæ eo nomine censentur, liberis masculis ex æquis portionibus diuiduntur, vel foeminis, si masculi non fuerint: adding more worth the noting, viz. Hanc hereditatem, cum quintum decimum annum attigerint, adeunt, & sine Domini consensu, cuilibet vendendo, vel vendendo alienare licet. Hac filij, parentibus furti damnatis, in id genus finidis succedunt, &c. This custome in diuers Gentlemens lands, was altered at their petition, by Act of Parliament, ann. 31. H. 8. cap. 3. But it appeareth by 18. H. 6. cap. pri. that in those daies there were not above thirty or forty persons in Kent, that held by any other Tenure. See the new Termes, Gauclet and Gauelkind.

- 5402 * Gaugeour (Gaugeator) dist. à G. Gauchir, i. in gyrum torquere. It signifieth with vs an Officer of the Kings appointed to examine all tunnes, hogheads, pipes, barrels, and tercians of wine, oyle, honey, butter, and to giue them a marke of allowance, before they be sold in any place. And because this marke is a circle made with an iron instrument for that purpose, it seemeth that from thence he taketh his name, of the French Gauchir, that is, to wrie or turne. Of this Office you may finde many Statutes: the first whereof is, Anno 27. Ed. 3. commonly called the Statute of prouision, or Purueyours, cap. 8.

- b a Gentleman, (Generosus) seemeth to be made of two words, the one French, (Gentil, i. honestus, vel honesto loco natus) the other Saxon, (Man) as if you would say, a man well borne. So that Gentlemen be those, whom their blood and race doth make noble and known. ἐνγενεα in Greeke, in Latine nobiles, q. Smith de Repub. Angl. lib. 1. cap. 20. Under this name are all comprised that are about Yeomen: so that Noblemen be truly called Gentlemen. But by the course and custome of England, * Nobilitie is either maior or minor: the greater containeth all titles and degrees from Knights upward: the lesser all from Barons downward, q. Smith ubi supra, cap. 21. The reason of the name growth from this, that they obserue gentilitatem suam, that is, the race and propagation of their blood, by giuing of armes, which the common sort neither doth, nor may doe. For by the coat that a Gentleman giueth, he is knowne to be, or not to be descended from those of his name, that liued many hundred yeeres since. Hombeit, that this is neglected, where substance faileth to maintaine the countenance. For many of great birth fall to pauerie, whose posteritie liuing and labouring in want, haue small encouragement to looke after the titles of their ancestors, and so in time slip into the number of the ignoble sort: yet if they by their vertue or fortune, can againe aduance themselves to sufficient abilitie, the Herald out of his obseruations, can restore them to the coat of their progenitors, and now and then helpe them to one, that their ancestors neuer were. Gentiles homines, see in * Tiraquel. de Nobilitate cap. 2. pag. 53. Tully in his Topicks thus saith of this matter. Gentiles sunt, qui inter se eodem sunt nomine ab ingenuis oriundi, quorum maiorum nemo seruitutem seruauit, qui capite non sunt diminuti. And in the first booke of his Tusc. Questions, he calleth Tullum Hostiliu, one of the Kings of Rome, Gentilem suum.

5789 a Gule of August, (Gula Augusti) the first day of August, Gule of August called in old Almanacks or Kalenders, S. Peter ad vincula, or in our latter Almanacks, Lammass day, and q Anno 27. Ed. 3. Stat. 3. cap. vnico, q. Fitzh. nat. br. fol. 62. i. called Gule of August, alias Goule de August, q. Plowd. casu Mines, fo. 316. b. is the very day of Saint Peter ad vincula, which was wont, and is still within the limits of the Romane Church, celebrated upon the very Kalends of August. Why it should be called the Gule of August, it may well be coniectured, that it cometh of the French Gueule, f. Lat. Gula, i. the throat. The reason of the coniecture is in Durands rationali diuinorum, lib. 7. cap. de festo S. Petri ad vincula: who saith that one * Quirinus a Tribune, hauing a daughter that had a disease in her throat, went to Alexander the 6. then Pope of Rome, and desired of him to borrow or see the chaine that S. Peter was chained with vnder Nero: which request obtained, his said daughter kissing the said chaine, was cured of her disease, and Quirinus with his familie were baptized. Tunc dictus Alexander Papa (ut inquit Durandus) hoc Festum in Kalendis Augusti celebrandum instituit, & in honorem beati Petri Ecclesiam in urbe fabricauit, * ubi vincula ipsa reposuit, & ad vincula nominavit, & Kalendis Augusti dedicauit. In qua festiuitate, populus illic ipsa vincula hodie osculatur. So that this day being before called only the Kalends of August, was upon this occasion afterward termed indifferently, either of the instrument that wrought this miracle, S. Peters day ad vincula, or of that part of the maiden, the throat, whereon the miracle was wrought, the Gule of August.

Of this reade the new Expounder of Law-termes, who saith, That Hidage is to be quit, if the King shall take all the Land by Hides, and yet also granteth it to be the taxe it selfe, saying that it was wont to be an usual kinde of taxing, as well for provision of armour, as payments of money: and that chiefly in King Etheldreds daies (a King in this Countrey before the Conquest) who in the yere of Christ 1006. when as the Danes landed at Sandwich in Kent, taxed all his Land by Hides, thus, That every 310. Hides of land should finde one ship furnished, and every eight Hides should finde one lacke of maile, and one Saller, for the defence of the Realme. Vi. Hide of land.

b Hide of land, Hida terra, Hilda terra. Saxonicè, Hidelander, is a certaine measure or quantitie of land, by some mens opinion, that may be plowed with one plough in a yeere, q. Termes of Law. By other men, it is an hundred acres. By Beda (who calleth it Familiam) it is as much as will maintaine a family. q. Crompton saith, that it consisteth of an hundred acres, and eight Hides containe a Knights fee. This Hide of land may come of the Dutch word, * Heyd, signifying a wide field, also Heath and Broome, as it were a field overgrown with Heath and sweet broome, whereof peradventure * Heydelberg in Germanie might take denomination, as a berg or hill, where much of that sweet Broome or Heath groweth.
